HAMILTON TRIUMPHS IN CROSS-COUNTRY FLIGHT

Flies From New York to Philadelphia and Back Within 12 Hours.

MAKES NEW RECORDS

Mark for Altitude Set at 4,384 1-2 Feet at National Aviation Meet at Indianapolis

NEW YORK, June 13.—Charles K. Hamilton rose in his aeroplane from Governors Island this morning and sped without a break 88 miles to Philadelphia in a remarkable cross-country flight under the auspices of the New York Times and the Philadelphia Public Ledger. He made the trip in one hour and 51 minutes, leaving Governors Island at 7:35 and landing at Philadelphia at 9:26.

Alighting at Aviation field, he delivered letters from Governor Hughes and Mayor Gaynor to Governor Stuart and Mayor Reyburn, accepted messages of congratulations from them to bear in return and started for New York again with only a brief intermission for food, fuel and oil. He had flown approximately 70 miles of his return journey when a sluggish motor compelled him to descend in a swamp near South Amboy, N. J., at 12:55 p. m.

The propeller was broken there in landing, and after repairs had been made, Hamilton resumed his flight and arrived at Governors Island at 6:39. Thus the eturn trip was made in one hour and 36 minutes at an average speed of 54 miles an hour, which breaks the record in the Curtiss flight from Albany to New York.

That Hamilton did not make the return as easily as the outgoing trip was due only to an omission due to haste. In his hurry to get away it was neglected to clean his spark plug; they glued and his engine balked and he had to come down on the banks of the river near Amboy.

Makes New Records.

Curtiss still holds the record for speed, but Hamilton took all American records for cross-country distance and duration, and using his own figures for the return journey his average speed per mile established a new record.

Despite accidents the aviator was able to finish within 12 hours, although 24 hours was allowed in the terms of his contract.

Carrying, as he did, letters between the two cities, Hamilton created the first fast mail by the air route to Philadelphia and return and demonstrated that an aeroplane can deliver mail from one city to another with the punctuality of government service.

During the whole of his first lap he never varied more than two minutes from his time card, and came down on the Philadelphia field, with the precision of a homing pigeon settling on its perch. It is an interesting coincidence that Hamilton won his honors today with the same biplane that won the international speed trophy for Glenn H. Curtiss at Rheims last year, and that he was driven by the same propeller with which Curtiss recently made his historic flight from Albany to New York.

Obstacles Overcome.

Curtiss flew over a more picturesque country, but Hamilton overcame today obstacles of geography and setbacks of luck that no other aviator has ever conquered. Curtiss carried pontoons. Hamilton flew 32 miles over salt water with no protection but three inner tubes of bicycle tires wrapped around his waist. He took chances on roof tops, bridges and moving trains that have never been even thought of before. With a missing engine and

HOUSEWIFE CHLOROFORMED

Daring Plot of Thieves Disclosed by Strange Experience of a Denver Woman.

DENVER, June 1—In the experience of Mrs. R. L. Collins, 1829 Vine street, the police believe that there has been uncovered a daring and ingenious plot, having as its object the daylight looting of residences while the occupants are under the effect of chloroform.

Last Saturday Miss Collins was offered what purported to be a face lotion by a well-dressed woman who declared that she had been sent by one of Mrs. Collins friends. The woman insisted that Mrs. Collins try some of the lotion then and there. Immediately following the application of the lotion Mrs. Collins was overcome with dizziness. She excused herself and upon her return found her visitor gone. A [illegible] analysis of the lotion [illegible] revealed [illegible] chloroform slightly diluted with water.

BURNED IN RUINS OF FALLEN BUILDING

27 PERSONS PERISH IN MONTREAL FIRE.

Scores Rescued From Perilous Positions by Firemen. Many Severely Injured.

MONTREAL, June 13.—Between 20 and 30 people lost their lives today when the supports of the sprinkler system tank on the roof of the Herald building gave way and the great mass of metal and water, weighing 35 tons, went crashing to the basement. The list of missing compiled by the police totals 27 persons.

Fire broke out immediately. Firemen displayed splendid heroism in rescuing scores of persons from perilous positions within the tottering walls.

Some survivors tell of falling one and two floors, and crawling through the dust to safety. The majority sought safety by rushing to the front of the building. All the floors held for about 30 feet from the front and to this is due the fact that the death list did not run into the hundreds, for there were nearly 300 people in the building at the time.

When the first hook and ladder company reached the scene, the firemen found the windows of the upper floors crowded with people and the crowd on the sidewalk urging them not to jump. Not one jumped. Ladders were quickly placed in position and those in danger were brought to the ground.

A dozen injured persons were brought from the ruins by the firemen, some of them with broken limbs. Of the rescues, that of Fred Vidal, a stereotyper, was the most daring. Half an hour after the firemen reached the building, Vidal was heard groaning and was located under a girder, from which he could not be dislodged. Although flames were creeping perilously near, three firemen began to cut the girder away. In the crowd outside was Father Martin. When he heard of the fight against death, he went into the building and administered the last sacrament to the semiconscious man. Finally Vidal was released not a moment too soon. Both his legs and several ribs were broken.

The fire started from the stereotyping department, the coals from the furnaces evidently being distributed on the different floors through which the pots passed on their way to the basement for the fire appeared to start simultaneously on all the lower floors. The building was valued at $150,000 and was erected by the Herald company, while the value of the plant is placed at $300,000. About half the linotype battery remained in position and it is believed that the two newspaper presses, located in the basement, were not seriously damaged. The rest of the plant is hoplessly wrecked. The insurance on the building and plant totaled $177,000. The Heraald appeared this evening as an eight-page paper, arrangements having been made with the Gazette until new quarters could be secured.

The flood caused enormous damage. Lightning struck in one village, destroying 1 0houses and seriously injuring four persons.

The flood subsided early today as suddenly as it came and danger is now over.

STUDENT CONFERENCE DELEGATES ENJOY SPORTS.

Dean E. J. Bosworth Delivers Last of His Addresses at Meeting in Cascade.

Athletic contests are taking the center of the field at the Rocky Mountain Student conference being held at Cascade this week, and it is probable that many Colorado Springs athletes will take away honors during the next few days. Paul Clifford of Colorado College was elected captain of the Colorado baseball team, and Professor John Smith of Longmont was elected captain of the track team.

Dean E. J. Bosworth of the biblical department of Oberlin college delivered the last of his addresses yesterday morning in the hall on the subject "Immortal Life as Lived on Earth," and the regular student Bible courses were begun and will continue until the end of the meeting.

The first baseball game of the season was held yesterday when teams representing the Bible study classes clashed, and other games will be played today, with the championship game of the division to be played tomorrow. The choice of the various members of the baseball and track teams will be made this afternoon. The state baseball schedule opens Thursday afternoon with a game at 2 o'clock between Colorado and Kansas, while Nebraska and South Dakota will meet two hours later. The winners in these two games will play for the pennant Friday morning.

The tennis preliminaries will start this morning and will be concluded by Thursday afternoon. The track meet, which will wind up the fun for the athletes, will be held Friday afternoon and prominent among the men who are expecting to take part in this is Ernest Fowler, the Colorado College star, who will be present to run in the dashes.

United States Forester Graves, who was a recent visitor in Colorado Springs, may make a brief visit to this city again in July, according to word received from Washington yesterday. Mr. Graves is in Washington cleaning up the work of the fiscal year, which ends June 30. When he completes this work he will arrange for a trip to Colorado to inspect the forests, in company with Congressman Taylor and Former State Senator Ammons. It is expected he will reach Colorado about July 15.

COLORADO CONGRESSMAN CHARGES MALFEASANCE

Representative Martin Is Central Figure in Scene in House in Friar Lands Discussion.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—A charge of malfeasance in office against Frank W. Carpenter, executive secretary of the Philippine government, and E. L. Worcester, and demanding investigation of the charge that they had bought and leased friar lands was introduced in the House today by Representative Martin, a Democrat, of Colorado, following information sent to the House last Saturday by the war department.

Mr. Worcester is a nephew of the Philippine secretary of the interior, Dean C. Worcester. The information upon which Martin based his resolution was sent to the House in response to a previous request he had introduced inquiring what persons had acquired these lands.

The report said that one of the friar estates had been sold to Carpenter and 3,000 acres of another estate leased to E. L. Worcester. The sale and lease were made by the director of public lands in the islands and was approved by the secretary of the interior.

Representative Martin's resolution declares these transactions are so "criminally corrupt and immoral as to constitute malfeasance in office on the part of officials involved."

Representative Crumpacker of Indiana was delivering a defense of Attorney General Wickersham in respect to the disposition of the friar lands in the Philippine islands today when Representative Martin interrupted to question some statement the Indiana member had made. The Colorado representative was persistent and Mr. Crumpacker was quite as persistent in his declination to yield.

The rules of the House," shouted Mr. Crumpacker with considerable earnestness, "are made for the observance of gentlemen."

At this moment vigorous applause was heard near the speaker's desk, coming from a single member.

Mr. Martin suggested that the gentleman applauding should come forward. Mr. Vreeland of New York stepped to the front, his face flushed in anger. Evidently he tok Mr. Martin's invitation as a challenge. As a clash seemed imminent, Representative Green of Massachusetts, in the chair, pounded his desk for order. Mr. Vreeland paused, glanced toward the chair and back toward Mr. Martin, then he took his seat and Mr. Crumpacker continued his remarks.

PROPOSES SUPERVISION OF PUBLIC UTILITIES

Governor Shafroth Suggests Enactment of Law to Create Public Service Commission.

DENVER, June 13.—Immediate enactment of a law to create a public service commission will be among the demands on the legislature at the extra session in August.

The bill, it is said, will be closely modeled upon the New York law, which is declared to have proved highly successful.

The public service commission will have general supervision over all public utilities in the state, traction, light, power and water companies.

During the last 18 months the New York commission has squeezed millions of dollars of water out of the corporations under its control, has compelled better service and has protected investors by insuring real, tangible values behind every dollar of securities issued.

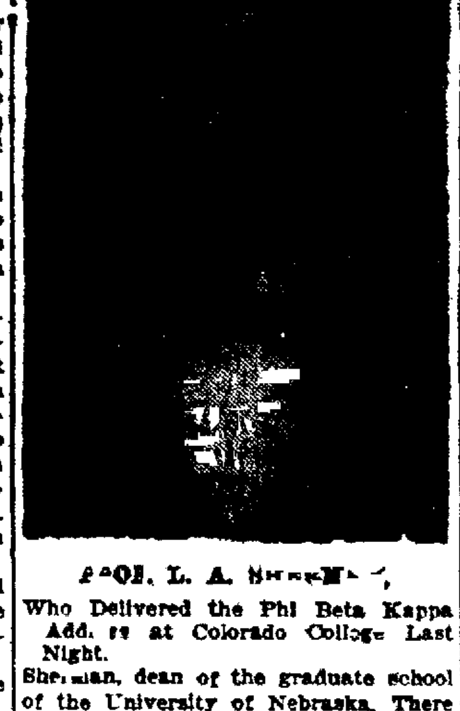

Colorado is now at the flood tide of [illegible] development," said Governor Shafroth. "[illegible] capital is coming in and [illegible] capital is seeking investment. ## CONSUL GENERAL SUSTAINED

British Foreign Secretary Says Gorst Has Complete Confidence of Government.

LONDON, June 13.—Replying to an interpellation by Sir Henry James Dalziel, Liberal, in the house of commons today, Sir Edward Grey, foreign secretary, declared that Sir Eldon Gorst, the British agent and consul general in Egypt, had the complete confidence of the government. Sir Henry thereupon requested the foreign secretary to send a copy of his reply to Mr. Roosevelt. Sir Edward answered he could see no reason for doing anything of the kind.

The exchanges between the foreign secretary and Mr. Dalziel came as a sequel to Mr. Roosevelt's speech at Guild hall in the course of which he criticised the administration in Egypt as being rather more lenient toward the nationalists than was justified by the conditions.

Since the delivery of the speech it has been considered inevitable that the Conservatives would take advantage of the opportunity to attack the government's policy in its African dependency.

LAD OF 12 CRACKS SAFE

DENVER, June 13.—Postoffice inspectors have been ordered from this city to Palmerlee, N. M., to take charge of probably the youngest safe cracker in criminal history. The prisoner, who has confessed to the robbery of the Palmerlee postoffice, is a 12-year-old Mexican lad. He broke open the safe like an expert "yeggman," and took what money it contained, but left stamps and other government papers for fear they would incriminate him. According to the boy's story he was carefully trained for the robbery by a gang of Mexicans.

ROOSEVELT PRAISED BY BRITISH LEADERS

EGYPTIAN AFFAIRS DISCUSSED IN HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Balfour and Sir Edward Grey Express Appreciation of American's Guild Hall Speech.

LONDON, June 13.—Theodore Roosevelt's Guild hall speech led to a lengthy discussion of Egyptian affairs in the house of commons tonight, the Conservatives demanding to know what course the ministers proposed to pursue, and some of the Liberals denouncing what they term Mr. Roosevelt's interference.

Arthur J. Balfour, leader of the opposition expressed warm appreciation of Mr. Roosevelt's sympathetic and kindly treatment of the subject. There was nothing in the speech, he said to which the most sensitive Briton could take exception. The situation in Egypt he declared called for prompt action.

Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary, replying in behalf of the government, announced that Mr. Roosevelt's speech had been communicated to him before being delivered. He had seldom listened to a speech with greater interest. The friendly interest, he said, was obvious and taken as a whole, it was the greatest compliment to the work of one country every paid by a citizen of another.

LONDON, June 13.—Lord Kitchener today resigned the command of the Mediterranean division to which he was appointed recently after his return from Australia via America. The Mediterranean station embraces the command of the troops in Egypt. The resignation is attracting more than usual interest because of Theodore Roosevelt's Guild hall speech. War Minister Haldane announced the resignation in the commons.

ON BOARD THE KAISERIN AUGUSTE VICTORIA, June 12.—(Via wireless to Crookham, Ireland, June 13.)—Theodore Roosevelt was the chief figure in a noteworthy scene in the steerage this afternoon when he attended a Catholic service held for 1,200 emigrants, Russian and Gelician Poles. The emigrants, surrounding an altar draped with the American flag, chanted a litany and then Mr. Roosevelt spoke briefly, the priest interpreting.

Mr. Roosevelt welcomed his hearers to America and gave them advice on the necessity of avoiding associations with strangers upon landing. He exhorted them to be mindful of the duties of citizenship and to protect the rights of women. At the end of his remarks the emigrants crowded about him, trying to kiss his hands.

Later at a service in the second cabin at which a German priest officiated, Mr. Roosevelt spoke. This morning Mr. Roosevelt attended a Protestant service in the salon. On Monday he will address the crew and stokers and on Tuesday with French, German and Polish priests and Protestant clergy he will give a reception to the first and second cabin passengers.

CONFEREES AGREE ON RAILROAD BILL

Compromise Regarding Suspension of Rate Increases to Be Submitted to President.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—With the end in sight a session of the conferees on the railroad bill was held tonight at the home of Senator Elkins. Only one feature of the bill remained as a serious bar to final agreement. That related to the period of suspension of rate increases pending an investigation by the interstate commerce commission to determine their reasonableness, and although a tentative agreement was reached regarding it, this suggestion of compromise must be submitted to the President before it is placed in the conference bill. It is understood that Senators Elkins and Aldrich and Representative Mann will take their tentative draft to the White House tomorrow.

The bill passed by the House would provide for a suspension of rate increases for not more than four months. The Senate bill would make the same provision except that under an amendment by Senator Jones, the commission would be empowered to make a further suspension, not to exceed six months or 10 in all.

President Taft was reported to favor a compromise that would make the total suspension six months. The President's idea may prevail. The Senate conferees offered to accept this proposition, but until tonight, at least failed to convince Mr. Mann that the handiwork of the Senate was not best.

HINMAN CAN HAVE COTTRELL'S POSITION

FORT COLLINS, Colo., June 13.—Claude H. Hinman, who is connected with the farmers institute at the Kansas Agricultural college, will probably be tendered the position of director of the Farmers institute at the Colorado Agricultural college, if an agreement can be reached with him regarding the salary, to succeed H. M. Cottrell, who has resigned to become agricultural director of the Rock Island railroad.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the state board of agriculture here tonight C. P. Gillette was named director of the state experiment station at the Colorado Agricultural college. E. B. House was appointed professor of irrigation engineering and L. G. Carpenter named for special research work in irrigation on the staff of the experiment station.

'INSURGENTS' RESENT CHARGE OF PARTY DISLOYALTY

Senator Dolliver, as Their Spokesman, Bids Defiance to "Regular" Leaders.

ANSWERS THEIR CRITICS

Republicans Unanimously Support Appropriation for Gathering Facts About Tariff.

WASHINGTON, June 13. Senator Dolliver answered the critics of the "insurgents" today in a speech delivered in the Senate before the adoption of the provision of the sundry civil appropriation bill, setting aside $250,000 to enable the President to gather information bearing upon the operation of the new tariff law.

Senator Clay's motion to strike out the provision was lost by a party vote of 13 to 44, Mr. Dolliver and his fellow progressives voting with the regular Republicans. The sundry civil bill, carrying appropriations aggregating $118,000,000, then was passed.

Mr. Dolliver's speech attracted great interest and was listened to attentively by senators on both sides of the chamber. It was the reply of the "insurgents" to the charges of party disloyalty and was a direct challenge to their opponents. The President's name was freely handled and his speeches were referred to without reserve.

Beginning with the declaration that the tariff discussion had been revived because of the tariff law, Mr. Dolliver declared there was no longer any freedom of conscience or of opinion such as had once made the Republican party strong. Referring briefly to Speaker Cannon's declaration that the insurgents should be hagned," he declared that he would not treat that remark seriously.

Strives to Uplift Party.

Hereafter, said Mr. Dolliver, it was evident that "men entering Congress must become either understudies or Ishmaelites. I regret these terms and shall contend for independence in the party lines. I do not fight to destroy the party, but to upbuild it."

Discussing the President's course towards the "Insurgents," Mr. Dolliver declared they were not playing for popularity as had been charged, and speaking of his personal relations to the President he declared he had never done anything to injure the administration.

"Such a charge does me the greatest injustice," he said. "None rejoiced more sincerely than I when he won the nomination. I did what I could to promote his candidacy for the presidency. I supported him from one ocean to the other after he became a candidate. When he took the oath of office I had but one sentiment towards him and that was the hope that God would give him power to stand against the conspiracy of greed and avarice that would invade the party.

"I have known many viscisitudes in public life, but I never dreamed that within less than a year I would be called upon to defend myself and the little group of men with whom I stand against the charge of taking seriously the President's speeches and the platform pledges."

Proposes to Lay Bare Facts.

Mr. Dolliver said he proposed to tell not only what had gone on in Congress last year, in connection with the tariff, but what was going on now to prevent members following their consciences, and said he thought that if the "insurgents" had made any mistakes, it was in remaining silent too long.

"I notify all parties that I have no intention of leaving the Republican party," he said. "It is not necessary for men to swallow every tariff bill that is set before them, and it would be

DISREGARDS INJUNCTION

Governor Haskell Announces Intention to Move All State Offices to Oklahoma City.

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 13.—Governor Haskell established himself in Oklahoma City today and declared he was going to move all the other state offices here immediately. He said the people by an overwhelming vote made Oklahoma City the capital and he did not see how he could transact the legal business of the state elsewhere.

"I am authorizing no trouble in removing the records from Guthrie when needed," said Governor Haskell. "They are good law abiding citizens up there and even if force was attempted there is a militia organization in this state."

Governor Haskell will disregard the injunction of the district court of Guthrie forbidding removal of the offices from that city. He held a conference today with F. J. Giddings, W. A. Ledbetter, General West and other lawyers. Attorneys declare the courts are powerless to interfere.

THE STAMPEDE FOR FLORIDA LAND

WHEN one sits alone in Colorado and reads his daily paper, one little knows that today and for the past two years there is and has been practically a land stampede in Florida. Men and women of the north, and the east, and the west are flocking to Florida, as they have never flocked to any land before. Why is this so? It is not the winter resorts, wonderful beaches, great surfs and the excellent and unsurpassed fishing that takes them there. It is not because the north has suddenly grown rich, and the men and women are flocking there for pleasure, but they are going there because during the past two years the entire nation has awakened to the possibilities of the Florida small farm.

Time was when only the rich could afford to go to Florida. It was and is the land of never-ending sunshine and ever-changing color scheme. The mighty timber barons, the phosphate miners and the turpentine operators absolutely owned Florida body and soul up until two years ago.

But after awhile all this changed. There came a time when the American farmer, backed by the United States government, the individual states and county and city organizations, made up his mind that the old methods of farming could be improved upon, and that he wanted some Florida soil and sunshine.

There came agricultural colleges; there came the widespread search for desirable soils, and above all, there came men to the fore who knew and who were masters enough of their own intellects to throw out the spot light of the world into the direction of the farm.

The Awakening

Florida today is undergoing the healthiest growth in population of any state in the Union. This is due to the awakening of the world to its newly discovered agricultural possibilities. The result is that thousands upon thousands of acres of formerly idle lands are now producing from $250 to $1,000 per acre in garden crops alone. The situation in Florida is unique.

Strange, is it not, that this marvelous land should have lain hidden so long from the eyes of the world? And yet the reason is obvious. A land that brought its landholders an easy living lulled them to a sense of peaceful security—was not the land to bring out their best endeavor or their most earnest purpose. It was so easy to make a good living—the bulk of the population owned their own homes and plantations. There was no occasion for the exploitation of the wonders of Florida.

The principal reason why a great deal of the land in Florida has not been used for agricultural purposes is because the large turpentine and lumber and cattle corporations owned and controlled such lands in tracts containing anywhere from 20,000 to 250,000 acres each. In most cases it was impossible to buy these lands in small tracts.

Recent Development Work

Most of the good farm lands in Florida have only within the last two years been placed on the market. Then, too, it is only recently that experiments in scientific farming, the rotation of crops, and the conservation of the soil have given even the old-time residents a thorough and correct knowledge of the possibilities of Florida's soil and climate.

YOUR OPPORTUNITY IN FLORIDA

A company composed of Colorado investors is being organized to purchase what is known as the Disston land grant in Taylor County, Florida, with a soil of surpassing fertility, to be placed in the Eastern market in a retail way by the purchasers. The tract consists of a solid township of 23,040 acres. There is a railroad station on the property. Tallahassee, the state capital, is but 45 miles distant. Two railroads operate within six miles of the land and the entire tract should be retailed readily at $24.00 to $10.00 per acre.

This land will produce grapefruit, oranges, lemons, tangerines, limes, kumquat and all other citrus fruits, as well as tomatoes, egg plant, lettuce, cucumbers, peppers, potatoes, pineapples, onions, peas, beans, celery, watermelons, cabbage, cauliflower and all other vegetables commonly included under the head of "Market Truck."

You can join the purchasers and secure this land as one of the company on the basis of $4.30 per acre if you act promptly.

As a rule the public does not have the opportunity of investing in the purchase of a tract at wholesale prices. They usually pay retail prices. The wholesale price is generally taken advantage of by individual capitalists who make a handsome profit by retailing their property.

The capital of this company is to be $100,000 divided into shares of $100 each, a portion of which we are offering the public, at the rate of $1.30 per acre.

Already many of the leading and best business men of Colorado Springs have subscribed for this stock, which is the best evidence of what they think of it.

This is a solid business proposition without a degree of speculation. It offers to the investor a handsome income on his money.

Think of owning fine truck land at a trifle over $4.00 per acre. The company can easily retail every acre in 10, 20 and 40-acre tracts at from $24.00 to $40.00 per acre. Figure the profit on your investment at such prices.

Think This Over Very Carefully

This company is buying 23,040 acres of land for $100,000, or a trifle over $4.00 per acre. Is there any chance to lose money at such a low price? Other companies who purchased similar land at around the same price are retailing their lands in the central and Eastern states at from $40.00 to $80.00 per acre. Why should this company not sell theirs at a handsome profit?

Are you a Business Man or Business Woman?

Business opportunities like this present themselves but once in a lifetime.

Are you looking for a money making investment?

If you want money from a bank you must first make a deposit or otherwise establish a credit. If you will invest with this Company along with some of the best Colorado Springs business men, you will soon have a drawing account that will surprise you.

It's in the land at this price.

It's up to you!

The opportunity is now at hand.

This exceptional opportunity is naturally limited to a restricted number. Will you be one of the fortunate few to take advantage of it?

A small sum of money invested in this company will really work wonders in the way of yielding profits.

Every person who is fortunate enough to obtain stock in this business enterprise will soon find himself possessing an income entirely beyond his most sanguine expectations.

Remember, this company is being organized to buy 23,040 acres of rich, black muck lands. Not sand, not cut over timber land, but rich, black drained prairie land that will produce anything. The company will immediately place the entire tract on the retail market to sell at from $24.00 to $40.00 per acre.

The foundation of a sure fortune awaits you in this enterprise.

The opportunity is open to you today. It may be the only one for you real opportunities are discouragingly scarce. This is your chance to own in a money-making proposition equal to the best paying Cripple Creek mines.

We cannot promise you beautiful language, high-flown sentiment, nor glittering generalities. We can simply state facts and give you an opportunity of coming along with us on exactly the same basis that the company is taking over the land. You buy in the land at the lowest price and sell at the highest price. We all share equally. No salaried officers to eat up profits. We make our money on this proposition by buying our land at about $4.00 per acre and selling it at $24.00 to $10.00. The company is being organized for the small as well as the large investor. Every subscriber is a permanent business man and resident of Colorado Springs. They are buying this land at an extremely low price and will retail it through an eastern selling agency at a handsome profit to the company.

No further solicitation for subscriptions will appear again. Investigate thoroughly.

Come to our office, examine the soil, look into this matter carefully, give it careful consideration, inquire into all the details.

This is a proposition for the investors. Each investor has as much to say as another. Every man who puts his money in this land is one of the company who directs its affairs. The company is being formed by Colorado Springs retail merchants and wholesalers, and not by land speculators.

You can invest anywhere from $100 to $10,000.

There are only 1,000 shares to be issued. Part of them are now sold. If you don't act quickly it will be too late.

Write or phone for further information.

Better still, come to the office and look into and investigate every detail.

NEW HUMANISM

was open to the public, was one of the most interesting speeches heard in the city in some time.

Dr. Sherman is one of the foremost rhetoricians in the country, and is recognized as an authority on style and form of English. His text books on the best methods of expression are used in every English department in all the universities of the United States and England, and foreign schools use his books for reference on all matters concerning the correct use of the English tongue. His address last night was a splendid example of the ability of Dr. Sherman, and Colorado College may feel itself honored in being able to induce such a prominent man to take part in its graduation exercises.

Professor Sherman said in part.

Prof. Sherman's Address.

A hundred years ago the paramount interests of the country were the home, the nation, religion, learning and letters. There was no sentiment relatively in conflict or competition with these interests. But today our critics tell us that the family is decayed, and many of these empty of children; that patriotism is dead; that we are only functionly religious, and that letters and learning are extinct. The cause of this deterioration, it is affirmed, is the spirit of commercialism, which governs our social and our inner life.

We may well bring to mind here these sentences from Emerson, which are found near the opening of his "Method of Nature":

"The land we live in has no interests so dear, if it knew its want, as the fit consecration of days of reason and of thought. Where there is no vision, the people perish. The scholars are the priests of that thought which establishes the foundations of the earth."

The festival of the society in whose name we meet has been fitly consecrated as a day of reason and of thought. We may well, as scholars in our degree, assay to interpret the signs of the times as discerned in this first decade of the new century, and exhort one another, and so far as we may, our fellows, to the new duties of the hour.

College learning in 1810 was the old humanism at the point of its completest triumph in the new world. The aim of learning then was acquisition; the aim of learning now is power. Its direction then was centripetal, whereas its direction is centrifugal today. Surely here is small reason for regret, we use the classics to better purpose now. We find that the spirit of letters has altered perhaps as radically. We are less professional, and more sincere.

Passed Into New Age.

It is thus evident that we have emerged from the era of the Renaissance and passed with the boundaries of a new age. We have withdrawn allegiance from the old humanism which for nigh 400 years held sway in our learning and our intellectual life. Within a generation we have come under the control of a new humanism.

What revolution has caused tastes and traditions prevailing for four centuries to become antiquated in a generation? The call of the practical, say some. Manifestly it is not this, not this, which is an effect, not in the least a cause. The age is not the same, the spirit of the age has made all things new. The spirit of the age is only a name for the moral consciousness of the public mind. This spirit of the age has set a new value upon man.

The growth of this age-spirit, which is an evolution, is most interesting to trace. In 1810 the great majority of our people were skeptics, or more exactly were indisposed to accept the current notion of a pulpit deity. Religion concerned itself with a species of selfism often seeming little more than a safeguard, like life insurance, against the hereafter. Today the most pervading axiom of human thought and consciousness is the fact of God, who is deriving things from things in an infinite scheme of activity of which we are all a part. It is no marvel, therefore, that right men and women are no longer interested especially in themselves but are tremendously interesterd in other people, in the uplifting of mankind.

The age-spirit has changed no less radically in its attitude towards moral order. A hundred years ago, the common practical sense of ethics was coarse and carnal. There was the general sentiment that moral law was a system of arbitrary and perverse denials, serving not unlike a trap to catch the unwary and the helpless. Today religion is discerned to be not an end but a means. God is not religious, but exists in a condition of consciousness.

Enlarged by Science.

The age-spirit has been both enlarged and chastened by the discoveries and lessonings of science. Science has become the balance-wheel of modern life. Without it we might have resigned ourselves to an interpretation of nature as fantastic as the Greek system of nymphs and dryads and river-gods or as preposterous as the Brahamanic cosmogony. It has substituted individual restraint for public control because it has made us know on what terms the governing powers deal with us. The old humanism effected a revolt from scholasticism, by restoring an interest in man and his best triumph in art and letters. The new humanism has turned man away from himself and his exploits, and made him obedient and subservient to Truth. It bids fair one day to make the race love Truth, which is God, with all its soul and all its mind and all its strength. Today we face new vistas. For a hundred years public selfism has been retreating, first, with the Turks from Greece. With the liberation of Brazilian slaves in 1871, and with the expulsion of shieks from the New World in 1896. Thus the spirit of the age involves a personal secular conviction of universal helpfulness, and is uniting all the world, secular and religious alike, in the common creed of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man.

Still another manifestation of the age-spirit, which is the grace of God working in men collectively rather than in the individual man, is the instinct, the craving for more existence. This principle of "More Life" is the key to the phenomenal progress of our times. The key to the age is not science, but this passion for more life, which broke out in Paracelsus," has made science, and is by it pushing forward towards the conquest of all human foes and the solution of every mystery. With this instinct of "More Life," we have been drawn into larger living by discovery of our affinities with nature.

Genius Above Learning.

The age ranks genius, or new life, above the learning of the schools. Yet men try to make a literature on the basis of books alone. Then comes a Howells, a Kipling, or a Hewlett, who shows us how to make characters visual and real. Genius gives us the secret to the newer existence, the larger life. Universities make science out of the product and administer it to the world. These then are the characteristics of the new age. In them we are to look for an interpretation of our New Humanism. For the new humanism is abroad among ourselves. In 1810, business men at watering places may have thought to know Greek was to live the life of the gods. Once learning made a man venerable. It takes manhood today to make a scholar.

Here is the chief distinction between the new learning and the old. Scholastic learning was learning for learning's sake. The new learning is learning that enlarges life. It searches out the secrets of power for the sake of society at large.

When did the spirit of the new age begin to assert itself? We may answer here, Not till after the Civil war. When Abraham Lincoln was first nominated for the presidency, the country at large felt that a gross impropriety had been committed. A "rail-splitter" for the chief magistracy! Even his own party blushed at the thought. Lincoln, a few years later, in his devotion to his country and her cause, both prayed, and practiced his prayers. Through him a new Americanism and age-spirit were manifested to mankind

No Less Sublime.

But modern-day heroism, dissociated entirely from the glamour and romance of books, is really no whit less sublime. Today we are moved by the world-spirit to take the second step in this spiritual evolution, and are sacrificing self-perfection for the amelioration and eventual perfection of society.

The age-spirit has inspired, since 1810, two great advances in the field of letters. The first of these achievements is a powerful, polished, yet popular literary style. Through the nerveless ease of Irving, and the declamatory stiffness of Bancroft, we have reached a natural yet elastic diction which enables men to say not only what they mean but say it with intensity and power. Some best writers of the day average as few as ten words per sentence, some even less.

The spirit of the times, which is of the people and for the people, has triumphed even in the body of the literature produced today. Those who write do not address the professionally educated public, but the masses. In the days of Burke, there were approximately 80,000 readers in England and America. There are now many millions.

The second great literary achievement has been in the field of verse. There are those who say that poetry is a lost art and an obsolete literary form. Manifestly such judgments are unenlightened or ill-considered. True it is that our race, almost since Saxon times, had been groping towards some indeterminate literary goal. We have been withal ill-taught in literary values. Few of our high school children today know the difference between poetry and verse. But we have come to see that it is not poems but poetry that we crave. The unit in poetry is not the poem, nor the canto, nor indeed the stanza, but just the line.

Changes in Conditions.

These are betterments which the age has brought us, since we crossed the academic threshold. Has it any benefits, or duties, for the man who with face towards life crosses it again this year. In 1810, the fledgling who went out from the halls of his college, with the smile of the Muses upon him, found nothing in the life of the times to make the humanizing effects of study seem irrelevant or disqualifying. He has a picked man, and doors opened of themselves before him. There was no call to get out and hustle which the refined collegian hears today.

Today a man is submitted to harshnesses and conditions of business which have the axiom of "Get the business anyhow" as its chief motto. He is subjected to tremendous pressure from all sides, to put the competitor out of the running. Here is the instinct of more life gone mad.

Wealth is the means by which one life essays to annex to itself the existence that can be contributed by others. It requires men accustomed to wealth for generations to know its uses rightly. The worst of tyrannies is the tyranny of democracy and of a democracy under the control of the new rich.

What is the remedy? A public conscience and betterment of personal ideals. The man of public [illegible] is [illegible] get set down [illegible] a dreamer or sneered at as the scholar in politics. In a day, the nation has recovered its moral balance.

This first test of assimilating vast numbers of immigrants seemed to have been met successfully. The children of foreign parentage became assimilated after a couple of generations and even less, just as had proved true earlier of the Irish. There remained but the struggle with the ambitious forces which were seemingly in control of the pulpit, the press, the legislatures and the courts. These forces seemed unassailable in their advantage because of the immense scale of their operations against the objector. Their unit of millions was matched against his citizenship. But we now feel that a single man by manhood is more than a match for all the powers that may be arrayed against him.

We have thus seen that the age-spirit has inspired and created a new humanism. This new humanism is made of love of truth, love of man, love of nature, and love of life, which means more life, more manhood and more love of the record and interpretation of life which we call literature. To put one's self in alliance with these forces is to have true culture. What is the future of such culture? Is it not doomed? Our hope, our surety, is in the spirit of the age, which is still the grace of God. Whatever is arrayed against the age-spirit will be ground to powder. After the present brief era of excitement—for this is the last chance of public exploitation—will come a season of social calm. The struggle will not be long, but we must speedily choose our part. The cry still is "Repent ye, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand."

"INSURGENTS" RESENT

difficult to get me out of the party on such a charge. It cannot be done by lying about me or by calling me names, such as 'freetrader' or 'Democrat.' Least of all can it be done by taking from my neck the millstone of political patronage. I share the universal disgust of making a great constitutional department the headquarters of an awkward squad of politicians."

Asserting that it was his desire to learn the public will, Mr. Dolliver suggested he would like to hold a political inquisition of the motives of those in both branches of Congress whose views the president seemed to be following "in the delusion that he is their leader."

Mr. Dolliver said that it was true that the Republican platform did not promise to revise the tariff downward and if that promise had been made it would have been easy to comply with it by reducing the duties on articles protected by patents or controlled by international trusts.

Figures Made to Deceive.

"Then it could have been defended plausibly by stump speakers," he said, "just at it was at Winona, when the President presented a grotesque table of reductions in duties which was prepared by a paymaster in the army."

Mr. Dolliver referred to Major McLeod, who assisted the Senate committee on finance in drafting its bill, and then undertook to show that rates had been raised- most of them, he said, by subterfuge. Included in this list were the iron and steel, the sugar and the woolen schedules. Many of the estimates given out were intended to deceive, he declared

Mr Dolliver asserted that it was a strategic mistake to circulate the President's Winona speech along with his Lincoln day address as they were contradictory in terms. The President had given entirely different reasons in the two speeches for considering the Payne law "the best ever enacted," said the Iowa senator. He declared that the tariff was being bolstered up by bogus figures

"Two Important Hoaxes."

Last year witnessed two important hoaxes, continued Mr. Dolliver, "the discovery of the North pole by Dr. Cook and the revision of the tariff downward by Senator Aldrich."

When the laughter that greeted his remark had died out he added that executive felicitations had been tendered up on both events.

Speaking of the opposition that the insurgents had aroused by failing to vote for the Payne bill Mr. Dolliver said their dereliction was due to their belief that it failed to fulfill the party pledges. He said they had deliberately taken their stand, having full knowledge of the political machinery that would be set in operation to bring about their defeat.

Contending that the policy of allowing interested men to revise the tariff was wrong Mr. Dolliver asserted that while the President understood that his ideas of it were foggy. After quoting that part of the Winona speech in which the President upheld Messrs. Aldrich and Payne, he said that while men who stood for individual and class interests were congratulated, [illegible] sustained the little group of men who have stood for the rights of the public are to be kicked out."

Denounces Rubber Conspiracy.

After stating that Mr. Aldrich had made a plea for the protection of rubber in the interests of the rubber tire industry, the Iowa senator said that it subsequently had been ascertained that these concerns were multiplying their wealth by rapid strides. He instanced one concern that in 10 years had increased its capital from $50,000 to $10,000,000. He pronounced this an outrage upon the public and raising his hands in the air, he exclaimed emphatically:

"I am through with it. I shall stand here and fight it. But I will do it as a Republican. I don't care for my political fate. I have toiled for the public for 25 years and I don't purpose that my remaining years shall be given up to a dail consent to these conspiracies that would rob the people to multiply private wealth."

Mr. Dolliver closed with an expression of confidence that the time was near when the public would demand more justice in lawmaking and higher standards on the part of the legislators.

After Mr. Clay's motion to strike out the provision had been defeated, Senator Bacon moved to amend the provision so as to require that not more than two-thirds of the experts employed under the paragraph should be of one political party. He charged that a partisan inquiry was contemplated. The amendment was voted down and the bill then was passed.

RAISES ASSESSMENTS ON EXPRESS COMPANIES

State Board of Equalization Adds $137,786 to Taxable Values of the State.

DENVER, June 13.—The state board of equalization, at its meeting today, added $137,786 to the taxable values of the state by raising assessments on the express companies above the schedules of values returned by them. The following table shows the increases made in each company's assessment for this year:

| Company | 1910 | 1909 | Increase |
|---|---|---|---|
| Globe | $171,[illegible] | $171,575 | $[illegible] |
| United States | 42,980 | 23,253 | 19,727 |
| Adams | 58,[illegible] | 44,515 | 14,005 |
| Pacific | [illegible] | 55,000 | 25,456 |
| Wells Fargo | 244,900 | 169,479 | 75,421 |
| Total increases | 137,786 | | |

As the result of an inquiry into the earnings reported by the companies, it is declared that the Globe was the only one that approximated a true statement of earnings.

State Auditor Kenehan presented to the board a report received from the interstate commerce commission on the Santa Fe railroad. In this report the total mileage is given at 10,05[illegible]. The [illegible] with the state board [illegible] If the [illegible] is used as a divisor [illegible] value per mile it will [illegible] of $[illegible] to the state.

The board bases its assessment upon three items: physical value, market value of capitalization and earnings capitalized at 5 per cent. An average is struck of these three totals. That quotient is divided by total mileage to find the value per mile, and then the third of that is made the assessment.

The board also considered the assessment of the Pullman company, and it seems as though the figure on that will be raised about $100,000 over last year, or from $414,461 to $510,787.

What the Press Agents Say

LORCH SCORES IN "THE CIRCUS"

One of the most complete stock productions ever offered in this city is "The Call of the Circus," which Theodore Lorch presented at the Opera House last evening, and will repeat tonight and tomorrow, matinee and night. Stock generally conveys to the mind of the spectator, a rough unfinished performance with little or no scenery. Lorch has surprised local theater patrons by the polished acting of himself and company and the complete scenic and costume productions he puts on.

The climax of the staging of "The Call of the Circus" came last evening when the circus dressing rooms were shown in the last act. The picture was surprisingly true to life and suggestive of life in the arena. The great circus tent enveloped the stage. The sawdust on the stage, the various properties of the show, the ropes, rough circus men, boxes and even cages completed one of the most alluring stage pictures offered in this city in many weeks.

As for the play it is most satisfactory. Its story is simple, human and affecting. It is sincerely acted by good players. Mr. Lorch himself is seen to particular advantage as the hero, and Cecil Fay scored the hit of her life as the circus rider. By all odds "The Call of the Circus" is the greatest amusement bargain ever offered at the Lorch scale of prices.

There will be a souvenir matinee tomorrow afternoon when photos of the star will be given to every lady in the audience.

DAVID KESSLER IN "THE JEWISH HEART"

Many inquiries are being made at the Opera House box office regarding the appearance of the great Yiddish actor, David Kessler, and his Thalia Theater company. The coming of this famous actor and his entire New York company is a novelty quite out of the ordinary, and one that local theatergoers will probably not have again in the near future.

Kessler is today recognized as the leading player of the American Yiddish stage. His permanent theater in New York, the Thalia, where he remains during the winter season, is known throughout the country because of the excellence of the productions and the sterling merit of the players. The actor is now making a tour to the coast and stops off in this city for one performance at the Opera House, Friday evening of this week, when Joseph Lateiner's drama with music, "The Jewish Heart," will be presented.

"The Jewish Heart" ran one complete season at the Thalia theater, New York. Playing to crowded houses for 250 consecutive performances is a record that few of the American productions can claim for the past season. Kessler brings the entire original company, including Mme. Rosa Karp and Mme. Clara Young, to this city.

MRS. FISKE IN "BECKY SHARP"

Harrison Grey Fiske announces that Mrs. Fiske has selected "Becky Sharp," the comedy by Langdon Mitchell, made from Thackeray's novel, "Vanity Fair," for her appearance with the Manhattan company at the Opera House, Monday evening.

This play, as does Thackeray's book, contains the most varied and large group of character studies ever seen in a contemporary drama. The lifelike characters of Thackeray are all reproduced. Of course Becky predominates. In fact, Mrs. Fiske is on the stage almost continuously, there is so much of the brilliant Becky in it. But for the admirers of this distinguished actress there can never be such a thing as too much of her. Then there is the effective picture, Rawdon Crawley, the virile and typical heavy dragoon, whose life is so closely interwoven with Becky's. Sir Pitt Crawley, whose depravity is so clearly indicated in "Vanity Fair;" the cynical and sinister figure of Lord Steyne; the simple Amelia, the patient and faithful Captain Dobbins and his opposite, the flirting, insincere George Osborne, the ridiculous and ponderous Joseph Sedley, prim old Miss Crawley with the horde of affectionate relatives. Briggs, her jealous serving maid, Lady Steyne and Lady Bareacres, all these afford an ample array of characters to test the mettle of the excellent Manhattan company.

A veritable feast of character acting is before the local theatergoer, a treat one has not a chance to witness in a lifetime. Seats will be placed on sale tomorrow. Prices are 75 cents to $2.50.

MAJESTIC NEW SHOW IS "SOMETHING DIFFERENT"

The Majestic's new show is "different from the most." It is a show with individuality, a lively, snappy affair.

There are three musical and comedy acts, a classy sketch and a dog and pony act, affording variety enough to suit every taste. And all the numbers are entertaining from start to finish.

The piece de resistance of the bill is "Uncle Charles From Charleston," a sketch presented by the well-known and ever popular couple, Mr. and Mrs. James R. McCann, assisted by a company of two capable young men. The sketch is one of the most finished pieces of dramatic work in vaudeville, and it has the merit of teaching a good moral as well as creating many a laugh.

The Carlton sisters have a singing and dancing novelty that would be hard to beat. They open with a "kid song" in which they are dressed like little tots of six, and they play the parts realistically. Their songs are all catchy, their costumes neat and their dancing is fine. Their combination clog dance and rope skipping is the very poetry of motion.

The dog and pony of Miss Louise Stickney win the hearts of everyone, and the act is not only entertaining to grown folks but a treat which no child should be permitted to miss. The animals are wonderfully intelligent and well-trained and the act is lent interest by the comedian who does tricks on stilts that win enthusiastic applause.

Helen Carmen, "The girl with the contagious smile," makes a big hit with her topical songs. She has a good voice and enunciates better than 99 out of 100 singers. Her recitation of Noodles Fagan's poem, "Gee, It's Great to Live and Learn," is good.

Helm and Cozens bring many a laugh with a singing and talking specialty, called "The Doctor and the Patient." They sing well and have some good jokes.

The Majestiscope pictures this week are interesting. The story is that of a Ghetto girl to whom happiness comes after many troubles. The scenes are vivid and well enacted. The concert orchestra program is especially lively and altogether the show is very entertaining.

TODAY IS "SHABOUTH"

Jewish People Celebrating Anniversary of Day Ten Commandments Were Received.

Today is "Shabouth," one of the most sacred days in the entire Jewish calendar, for 3,231 years ago today Moses ascended Mount Sinai and received the tablets of stone on which were inscribed the ten commandments. All over the world the Jews are celebrating the day, and in this city there are several meetings being held in commemoration.

In the old world last evening, the men and women, boys and girls, gathered about the fireplace, over which were woven garlands of all sorts, for the Hebrew believes in commemorating the day with feasting and joy, rather than by the sadness which followed Gethsemane. So today, seven weeks after the Easter, the men of the orthodox old faith of the Mosaic fathers are remembering the day so important in their early history.

SUBMITS TO PAINFUL OPERATION FOR AUNT

Mrs, Louise M. Barnhart Has Four Pieces of Skin Removed for Grafting,

That Mrs. Louise M. Barnhart, wife of Officer C. C. Barnhart, has something of the Spartan in her character, was shown yesterday afternoon when she allowed Dr. E. A. Miller to remove four small pieces of the skin from her forearm to graft on the hip of Mrs. Charles Barnhart, her husband's aunt. When Mrs. Barnhart first learned that her aunt was to undergo an operation involving the grafting of another person's skin to take the place of her own she readily consented to sacrifice the required amount, and early yesterday afternoon the painful operation was successfully performed at the home of Mrs. Charles Barnhart. That the circulation of the blood might be normal, no anesthetic was administered and Mrs. Barnhart bore up under the painful process with striking fortitude.

When the first piece of skin was removed, Mrs. Barnhart thought that this was all required, and was somewhat surprised when the doctor applied again and again for another portion of nature's gift. She did not waver, however, and won for herself the enthusiastic commendation of her many friends by her generosity and bravery.

Mrs. Charles Barnhart has been ill for several months, and all efforts to heal the wounds caused from a serious operation have been unavailing, until it was finally decided to resort to the delicate process of skingrafting. At a late hour last night the patient was reported doing well, and her heroic niece seemed none the worse for her sacrifice.

ADOPT BABY GIRL

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Blue Granted Custody of 10-Month-Old Child of Their Daughter.

Unable to care for her two children in a proper manner, Mrs. Elenora Barnes of Colorado City yesterday showed her love for them by relinquishing the younger, a girl 10 months old, into the hands of her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Blue, also of Colorado City. Attorney White stated to Judge Little in the county court that the father of the little girl has not provided for her support, and that the mother, while able to care for one child, can not properly take care of both.

The mother declared her willingness to release the child into the hands of her parents, and they, in turn, stated they are glad to be able to care for the child. Judge Little announced that papers of guardianship and adoption will be issued this morning.

The Colorado ranch went in at a value of $13,800, while the Oklahoma farm was placed at $20,000. Mr. Moss will take possession of his ranch at once and Judge Cunningham's son will live on the Oklahoma property.

MAY PLANT MORE TREES

City Officials Considering Advisability of Reforesting Lake Moraine Watershed.

In line with a suggestion made by Forester Graves, this city will plant several thousand young fir trees on its land around the watershed near Lake Moraine. Mayor Avery and Water Superintendent McReynolds went to Monument yesterday to inspect the government tree nursery there, and to see if trees can be purchased from the government at a reasonable price. The matter will probably be taken up by the City Council at an early meeting.

The government's nursery at Monument is the largest and best equipped in Colorado. There are more than 200,000 trees growing there and beginning next year it is planned to increase the capacity to a full million trees each year. These trees, it is claimed reach a size where they may be safely transplanted nearly two years before those grown in the smaller nursery back of Manitou where the capacity is only 30,000.

THEY ALL DEMAND IT

Colorado Springs, Like Every City and Town in the Union, Receives It.

People with kidney ills want to be cured. When one suffers the tortures of an aching back, relief is eagerly sought for. There are many remedies today that relieve but do not cure. Here is evidence to prove that Doan's Kidney Pills cure, and the cure is lasting.

F. Matske, R. R. No. 1, Seibert, Colo., says: "One of our boys was troubled by weak kidneys from infancy and he could not retain the kidney secretions. During the night he suffered from backache and he always felt tired and miserable in the morning. A few months ago we began giving him Doan's Kidney Pills. They have made a big improvement clearing up and regulating the passages of the kidney secretions and strengthening the back. Considering this experience with Doan's Kidney Pills there is no doubt in my mind as to their effectiveness in relieving kidney complaint."

With Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Calkins acting as chaperones, they visited every place of interest in and about Salt Lake, and expressed regret when leaving that they did not have more time to spend here. According to the plans of the party, they will spend the next two or three weeks taking in all the pleasure resorts on the coast.

THE SOUND SLEEP OF GOOD HEALTH

Is Not for Those Who Suffer from Kidney and Bladder Ailments.

Sleep, sound and plenty of it, is one great necessity of health. Any ailment that prevents your sound natural sleep must be cured at once or you will lose your good health your strength, your vigor, your ability to do your work easily and naturally and your interest in your family and friends.

Kidney diseases and irregularities of the bladder and urinary organs are one great source of sleeplessness, and these must be cured or your health will be undermined and your life in danger.

Foley Kidney Pills

Give first a quick relief and then a permanent benefit for these troubles. They are very carefully compounded of ingredients specially selected for the cure of all disorders of the kidneys and urinary organs and they are besides strengthening, healing and antiseptic and tonic in quality and action. If you have aching pains over your hips and in your back with a soreness through your kidneys, if you are compelled to get up many times during the night, thus losing your sleep, and if you have a painful and burning sensation, then you need Foley Kidney Pills. If there is a cloudy or milky voiding, with floating particles or a brick-dust sediment, or if there is a sand-like substance passed then you need Foley Kidney Pills. If you are nervous, have dizzy spells especially in the morning, with specks before the eyes then do not delay longer as all these symptoms show a disordered state of the kidneys and bladder which must be cured before you can regain health and strength.

Do You Know Why You Have These Ills?

Because the kidneys whose sole duty it is to get rid of the waste matters that poison the system are diseased, are not working properly and these poisonous matters are carried back through the system by the blood and upset the entire organization. Remember that we cannot live without the kidneys and serious kidney disease amounts to pretty near the same thing as cutting out these organs since they are of little use if not healthy. They cannot be replaced, and they must be given the substance necessary to restore them, build them up and put them again in their natural condition and in their regular working order. Foley Kidney Pills will do this. They have helped others and they will help you. Read how they restore health and strength.

J. L. Authers, clerk at the Eau Claire House, Eau Claire, Wis., says: "For a long time I have been unable to sleep soundly nights, because of pains across my back and soreness of my kidneys. My appetite was very poor and my general condition was much run down. I have been taking Foley Kidney Pills but a short time and now sleep as sound as a rock. I eat and enjoy my meals, and my general condition is greatly improved. I can honestly recommend Foley Kidney Pills as I know they have cured me."

Captain A. H. Bogardus, the world famous rifle shot who holds the championship record of 100 pigeons in 100 consecutive shots is conducting a shooting gallery at Lincoln, Ill. Recently interviewed he says: "I have suffered a long time with kidney and bladder trouble and have used several well known kidney medicines all of which gave me no relief until I started taking Foley Kidney Pills. Before I used Foley Kidney Pills I was subjected to severe backaches and pains in my kidneys with suppression and oftentimes a cloudy voiding. While arising in the morning I would get dull headaches. Now I have taken three bottles of Foley Kidney Pills and feel 100 per cent better. I am never bothered with my kidneys or bladder and I can again feel like my own self. All this I owe to Foley Kidney Pills and I always recommend them to my fellow sufferers."

THOUSANDS LOSE THEIR TEETH

From Pyorrhea or Rigg's Disease

This disease destroys more teeth than all other maladies combined. It may be detected in the early stages by slight soreness in the gums and a tendency to bleed easily. As it becomes more advanced the gums become inflamed and sore, the teeth loosen and spread away from their proper position and if allowed to continue will result in the loss of all the teeth. This disease is considered incurable by the great majority of the dental profession. We are making a specialty of the treatment of this condition, have successfully treated a large number of cases, any or all of these we can give you as references and can furnish you with conclusive evidence that we do permanently cure Pyorrhea or Rigg's disease. If you have any of the symptoms we have described it is a dangerous condition and you will lose your teeth unless they are properly treated. If you have already lost a number of your teeth from decay or from the disease condition we have just described and still have a few teeth left we can replace the missing teeth by our Maxillary Method. Teeth replaced by this method look natural, feel natural and perform every function of the natural teeth and are far superior to any other artificial denture. We are making artificial teeth on plates, dental bridgework, gold and porcelain crowns, fillings and all other dental work by the most modern and scientific methods. To demonstrate the advantage of this over the older methods we are making a liberal offer for the month of June. If your teeth need attention this is an opportunity you cannot afford to miss. We will be glad to examine your teeth, give you our special prices and more fully explain our methods. This is an exceptional offer for this class of work. If you wish to take advantage of it it will be necessary for you to make your appointments now as the time is short and will be entirely taken up by appointments. No charge for examination. Drs. Shaw & McDonald, Dentists, Barnes Building, [illegible] Pikes Peak Ave. Office hours from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. Sundays from 9 to 12. Evenings by appointment. Phone Main 918.

UTAH COPPER CO. TO BUILD OWN RAILROAD

Reported to Intend Issuing $2,500,000 Worth of Bonds in Near Future.

That the Utah Copper company, controlled by C. M. McNeill and associates of this city, will announce the issuance of $2,500,000 worth of bonds to provide for the construction of a new railroad through the Bingham canon, Utah, for the purpose of hauling ores of the company, is the word received from New York Such a move on the part of the company will mean a big loss to the Denver & Rio Grande railroad, which has spent several millions of dollars for a railroad through this canon, to haul the ore The Denver & Rio Grande line is 27 miles long, and it is understood that the line for the copper company upon which the engineers are now at work will be only 17 miles in length. It is estimated that it will cost $2,500,000 to build the road, and that the company will save between $600,000 and $700,000 a year by owning its own tracks.

An alleged disagreement between the railroad company and the copper company is said to have arisen, which has resulted in the determination of the copper company to build a line of its own

BOYS LEAVE ON A LONG GYPSY TRIP

Y. M. C. A. Youngsters Will Spend 10 Days at Woodland Park and Vicinity.

The Gypsy trip for the boys of Colorado Springs has become a reality at last, and the dreams of camping out for 10 long days with the attendant joys of cooking one's own meals and catching fish five feet long are beginning to take on more practical form for when the noon train over the Midland left yesterday, there were 25 happy kids on board, clad in raiment that would do justice to Wild Bill and Alkali Ike in the palmiest days of the frontier period J W. Erps, head of the physical department, and Walter Thomas of the boys work department, with several other older heads went along to keep the lads straight and to help them to put in the 10 days to the best advantage.

Plenty of athletic paraphernalia was taken along in addition to the apparatus generally appertaining to a camping out, for there are several baseball teams and track squads in the party, which have won honors among the youngsters divisions during the last few months While not busy filling one another's coffee with sand and piling the beds they will battle for the supremacy on the hills surrounding Woodland Park

An excursion to some place of interest in the hills has been planned for nearly every day of the trip, and the boys should be well browned and hardened by the time of their return as all the traveling will be done on foot. There will be three tents full of the boys, and whether they will have a splendid time will depend on how much life they possess From appearances when the train left, they have about the requisite amount of pepper to make things hum and to keep their chaperones busy.

Summer excursion rate for the Cripple Creek Trip now on Only $2 50 for the grandest one-day trip in the world

HEARING AN OLD CASE

New York Company Suing Manitou Men for $748.—They in Turn Ask for Damages.

After lying in the court for several years, the money demand suit of Marimura Brothers, a curio firm of New York and Japan, against J. and M. Saidy, two brothers in business in Manitou, to recover $748, came up for trial in the county court yesterday After hearing the evidence and arguments of the attorneys, Judge Little had the jury of six men locked up for the night with instructions to hand in their verdict this morning

The case is rather complicated The New York and Japan company claims that $748 is due them for china goods, alleged to have been contracted for by the Manitou men in 1906 and on which they claim payment is still due

The Manitou men claim that they ordered the good several months before the opening of the tourist season in 1906 with the stipulation that it was to be delivered to them in time for that season The goods they say did not arrive until after the season closed, and they lost not only the money they paid for three and a half months rent on a store room but also the money paid out for a trip to New York to select their stock and the expenses incidental to bringing an expert china salesman from New York to sell the stock and furnishing him board and room for over three months For this reason they think they are entitled to about $750 less the price of a part of the shipment which arrived early, amounting to about $350

Wit and Gravity Characterize Class Day Exercises Colo. College Seniors--Commencement Tomorrow

With but one day remaining of the four long years of college life the seniors of Colorado College gathered yesterday to carry out the last ceremonies over which they might preside exclusively as students. The programs which were given, the one at Perkins hall, and the other in the Jungle formed the most impressive part of the commencement exercises which have been carried out. The one day of the entire course which is dedicated to a graduating class was utilized to the best advantage [illegible] the acts and sayings of the classmates, some serious and weighty, others frivolous and witty, will long be remembered, not only by those directly interested, but by everyone who was fortunate to be present.

The first part of the day was given over to what are termed the class exercises proper, and with John J Sylvester, president of the class, on the platform, the graduates-elect took their seats in Perkins hall and listened to the class oration by H. W Coil on Man's Place in the Universe.' Miss Louise Strang then read the class poem, dealing with the efforts and achievements of the class as a body which received much merited applause. A song written by Miss May Ellerick and Albert R Ellingwood, the latter the winner of the Rhodes scholarship, was sung in unison by the class, and was followed by the march to the flagpole in front of Perkins hall. President Sylvester delivered the annual flag oration, in which he brought out the glories of the life of heroism spent not on the battlefield, but rather in the common walks of life and portrayed the necessity for this country to develop its individuals and to look to the citizen lest it fall into the pits encountered by every other great nation in the world. He turned over the flag to the keeping of the next class, which will graduate in 1911. The flag was accepted in behalf of the class by Ernest Fowler. At the conclusion of his speech of acceptance Fowler raised the flag to the top of the pole, signifying the protectorate of the coming class, in whose keeping the good of the school and the flag above is reposed.

Does a College Education Pay?" was the topic chosen by Leland W Pollock for his Ivy oration and it served as a fitting selection with which to close the more serious exercises.

College education does pay," he said "if it fits a man to lead a better life and to do greater things than it he had not gone to college. The man who wins all the honors in school and who stands best in his classes is not the one who is to be looked upon as the [illegible] the great [illegible] and find whether the average is doing well in the world. The man who is most prominent in college life is not always the man who does the best things later, and the season of four years which is given over for development work is to be considered as valuable or worthless, insofar as it develops a man and fits him to do later and greater things."

Senior Girls of Colorado College in Their Takeoff on Sophomore Daisy Chain—The Parody Was a Feature of the Exercises Yesterday.

For the afternoon exercises Glenn Shaw, the class humorist, gave the Jungle oration following the parade, in which the various members of the class appeared in costumes indicative of some unusual occasion during the last four years. Some of the turnouts which resulted were grotesque and all together in keeping with the funmaking which followed. Shaw made good. His last effort as the official rib cracker outdid all former attempts and his appearance yesterday on the green in the Jungle surrounded by happy classmates, will establish his fame for some time to come.

Miss Anna Strang read the Jungle poem, which followed the humorous vein of the first speaker. Then a few sidelines on the lives of the seniors not formerly made public appeared in the class history, which was read by Irene Huse and some interesting episodes evidently linked with bright memories were related, to the amusement of everyone except the particular victim in question.

One of the features of the exercises was the take-off on 'Junior Insignia Day," in which the senior girls carrying festoons of kinnikinnick and pine boughs, imitated the annual junior day when the girls of the third year class carry garlands of daisies.

At the conclusion of the fun the annual senior reception was held on the campus, and a large crowd took advantage of the opportunity to mingle for the last time with the members of the outgoing class in their old haunts.

The program will be reopened again this afternoon with the music recital in Perkins hall at 3 o'clock which will be started by Dean Hale of the School of Music. The program is as follows:

|---|---|
| Schubert | Impromptu |
| Beethoven | opus ..., No 1 |
| Rubenstein | Kamenno Ostrow |
| Beethoven | opus 2" No 1 |
| Dennee | Valse Gracieuse |
| Beethoven | opus 2" No 1 |

| Beethoven | opus 2" No 1 |
| Godard | Valse Chromatique |
| Beethoven | opus 2" No 1 |
| Von Weber | Concertstueck |
| Beethoven | opus 2" No 1 |

At the conclusion of this program the annual alumni reception will be held at the home of Dean F. S. Parsons 1129 Wood avenue from 4:30 to 6 o'clock and everyone who has ever attended the school has been requested to present himself to make new acquaintances and to renew old ones. At 8 o'clock President and Mrs. Slocum will open their home at 24 College place to all friends of the students and the college.

Tomorrow is set aside for the regular commencement proper and at that time William Allen White will deliver the address of the day on "A New Theory of Spiritual Growth." After the seniors have received the sheepskins making them no longer students but fullfledged alumni, the day will be given over to many private parties and banquets the last opportunities for the graduates to mingle with their classmates and to do honor to the school.

The music for the commencement program will include "The Lady of Shalot," by Bendall, to be sung by the Young Woman's Glee club in which Mrs. E E Taliaferro will sing the solo parts while Earl Hille will accompany upon the piano. Mrs. Mame Briscoe and Mrs. George Hemus will play Rubenstein's "Kammenoi-Ostrow."

SPLENDID PROGRAM IN STRATTON PARK TONIGHT

With the "Miserere" from 'Il Trovatore," being played by Messrs. Maxwell and Schellhaus, and the entire band joining in the other two features, Massenet's overture, "Phedre," and "Echoes from the Metropolitan Opera House" the latter of which contains portions of the best music which has been given in that entertainment resort during the last few years, the concert at Stratton park tonight, from 8 to 1 o'clock, by the Midland band, should be one of the best of the year. The complete program follows:

March, "American Spirit" ... Buglione
Selection from "The Girl Question" ... Howard
Containing "It's Bye-Bye Pal" "Be Sweet to Me, Kid," "I Hate to Work on Monday," "Waltz With Me Till I'm Dreamy," "There Is No Place Like Home," "When Eyes Like Yours," 'Buck and Wing." Finale

CIRCUS PLAY SCORES HIT

Lorch Company Give Unusually Good Production of the "Call of the Circus" at the Opera House

The Call of the Circus' telling of the lure of the sawdust ring was presented at the Opera House last evening by Theodore Lorch and his excellent company. The attraction is the best stock production ever given in this city. Not only is the acting of the company and the play itself much above the standard of stock presentations but the staging surpasses many of the road attractions which annually visit this city.

'The Call of the Circus' is on the order of 'Polly of the Circus' but it is not 'Polly of the Circus.' As a play it is much better inasmuch as its story is more substantial and is better told and developed.

Mr Lorch gives a faithful sincere portrayal of the whole-souled minister who loves the little circus rider. Cecil Fay however, is the star of the present production. Her circus girl is much better than the Polly of Miss Ida St Leon who appeared at the Opera House last fall in the road production of 'Polly of the Circus.' As Amy the circus rider Miss Fay is seen at her best. Not only does she look the part but she plays it most sympathetically and with no little feeling. The clown of Mr Hawley, Mr Doty's village deacon and numerous other roles, too numerous to mention are all well taken.

The staging of 'The Call of the Circus' is excellent. The scene in the front of the parsonage is quite attractive and the hotel parlor in the third act representing the best room of a little hostelry in the middle west is unusually true to life. The last scene, showing the circus dressing room is most picturesque full of the atmosphere of the ring with the smell of the sawdust the noises of the animals the music of the brass band etc., all prominently represented.

'The Call of the Circus' will be repeated tonight and tomorrow, matinee and night.

TOEPHFFER IS HELD

County Officials Trying to Find if Prisoner Is Really Mentally Unbalanced.

In order to have more time in which to decide as to his sanity, the county authorities will hold E. R. Toephffer at the county jail for several days. The man was arrested Sunday by the police for investigation and lodged in the city jail. A short time later he became violent, giving every indication of being mentally unbalanced, and was removed to a padded cell in the county jail. County Physician McKinnie made an examination of the prisoner yesterday, but was unable to decide definitely as to his condition, and so will watch the case for a short time. The prisoner came before the notice of the public about 10 days ago, when he disappeared from his home at 416 North Tejon street, only partially clad and in his bare feet, only to return again after his friends had become alarmed as to his whereabouts.

News of Local Courts

Finding that the bonds of matrimony are irksome, Riley Irvin yesterday filed suit for divorce against his wife, Gertrude, in the county court. The couple were married at Canon City October 10 1906. In his complaint Irvin makes some sensational allegations against his wife's character and actions since that time. The case will probably come up for trial this morning.

Charged with assaulting Cecil P. Reed, Harold Smith was arraigned in Justice Dunnington's court yesterday and was released on his own recognizance. He will be given a hearing tomorrow.

Charging extreme cruelty on the part of her husband, Sadie A. Cason of Colorado City yesterday filed a divorce complaint in the county court against Oliver B. Cason, an employe at the Colorado Midland shops. She also asks for the custody of their 8-year-old daughter and to be decreed sole owner of a four-room cottage at 414 Erich street Colorado City which is owned by the defendant, together with all the household goods. No mention of alimony is made. The couple were married July 18 1903, at San Francisco.

The case of Frederick P. Allen against the Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway company for $12,500 damages was continued for the term in the district court yesterday. Allen's wife recently secured a judgment of $6,000 against the company in this court for personal damages, and the husband is suing for the alleged loss of her companionship.

THE WASTE OF WATER.

LAST month the average daily withdrawal of water from the domestic system of Colorado Springs was about 8,500,000 gallons. Assuming that approximately 50,000 people are supplied from the Colorado Springs water system, this is a per capita consumption of 170 gallons daily. When we consider the enormous quantity of water which is drawn from the ditches to irrigate the lawns, and which is not included in these figures, it is plain that waste is an item which, in a time of less plentiful supply, would be serious.

Indeed, the per capita water consumption in Colorado Springs is much higher than that of any other city. Available figures show the average per capita consumption in St. Paul to be 52 gallons, in Kansas City 77 gallons, in Louisville 85, in St. Louis 90, in Cleveland 100, in Los Angeles 112, in San Francisco 80, and in New Orleans 50. Nobody ever hears of a "water famine" in any of those cities, or of the people complaining even of inconvenience due to an inadequate supply. Most of the cities named are situated on large rivers where the water supply is unlimited, and if they use a less quantity than we it is simply because they find it quite as easy to get along with less.

The severe drouth which Colorado Springs suffered two years ago taught several valuable lessons, not the least of which was that a lawn can be kept in perfect condition with far less sprinkling than is commonly indulged in. When the order was issued limiting sprinkling to one hour a day there were voluble protests from offended gardeners and householders who declared that its strict enforcement would mean the death of every lawn in the city. But, we doubt if there was a lawn in Colorado Springs which died, or even suffered injury under this treatment; indeed, many gardeners afterward declared that the experience had taught them that they had previously used too much water.

Fortunately there is no prospect of an early repetition of the water shortage of two years ago, but inasmuch as the present waste of water is wholly unnecessary it would be much wiser to guard against danger by practicing reasonable economy.

THE AEROPLANE IN WAR.

NEW records in aerial travel are made so fast that it is hard to keep them in mind, but it is still such a short time since Wilbur Wright first astounded the world by circling the parade ground at Fort Myer that we marvel anew at each successive achievement. To say that the progress made in the development of the aeroplane in the last two years is wonderful is merely repeating a commonplace, and conveys only a faint idea of what has actually been done.

On December 17, 1903, Wilbur Wright made the first successful man-flight in history at Kitty Hawk, covering a distance of 852 feet in 59 seconds. That was only six and a half years ago, and in the next two years almost nothing of unusual interest was done either by the Wrights or other experimenters, their efforts being devoted to mastering their machines. But progress in the last three years has been rapid. It was in December, 1908—less than two years ago—that the Wrights attracted international attention, the one at Washington and the other in France, by the success of their maneuvers. Now flights of a hundred miles are so frequent as actually to attract less notice than Wilbur Wright's first successful trip around the parade ground at Fort Myer.

The most interesting speculation as to the aeroplane concerns its ultimate utility. What is a flying machine really good for? After its novelty has worn off and its attraction as a spectacle has passed away (if this ever happens) what will be its real use? It was partly to solve this problem that Hamilton made his remarkable flight between New York and Philadelphia yesterday. There are many enthusiasts both here and abroad who contend that a single man in an aeroplane can render the costliest fortification ineffective and even destroy armies by dropping explosives on them from heights great enough to protect the aviator from the gun fire of his victims.

In opposition to this it is argued that the difficulties which would confront the men in the flying machine would be no less than those of the force on the ground. To keep himself safe from attack the aviator would have to fly at a considerable speed and remain at least 100 feet above the ground, and under these conditions he probably would find it quite as hard to drop a bomb where it would be effective as it would be for the marksman on the ground to injure his machine.

IF RUSSIA HAD USED AEROPLANES.

Theoretically the chances would appear to be in favor of the aviator. Aeroplanes are cheap; they can be built by the score at a cost of a few hundred dollars apiece, which is almost nothing as a military expenditure, and in time of war there is never a lack of daring men to attempt any enterprise however hazardous. Imagine such a situation as that of the opposing Japanese and Russian armies just before the battle of Mukden, the colossal engagement which decided the recent war.

According to the accepted version of that affair the Japanese victory was largely the result of Marshal Oyama's success in accomplishing a masked movement of troops soon after the fighting began—that is, secretly disposing his men in a way which upset the calculations of the Russian commander. If the Russian army had been equipped with aeroplanes this movement would have been impossible, for they could have filled the sky with aerial scouts who would have observed every detail of the movement as plainly as if they had been taking part in it.

This much is a certainty, even with the present imperfect development of the aeroplane as an instrument of war, but it is contended with some show of reason that a flock of these aerial craft could have done even more—that is, they could have demoralized the Japanese force by dropping explosives on it. In such an engagement it is likely that many of the aeroplanes would be disabled, but it is practically certain that some of them would hit something. Moreover, the moral effect probably would be quite as disastrous as the actual damage inflicted, for human bravery has hardly reached the point of being able to withstand a rain of explosive missiles from the sky.

It is an interesting subject from whatever angle one may view it—all the more interesting because in the absence of an actual demonstration of what can be done with the aeroplane in war, anything and everything may be assumed possible. But one thing is certain—the aeroplane will play a part in the next big international conflict, with the chances of success favoring the side which is best equipped and has made the furthest advances in the art of manflight.

SOCIALISM, ETC.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

In your giving place to such communications as the criticism of Roosevelt in The Gazette of June 5, Mr. Darrah's and my letter, I recognize, most gladly, a step onward and upward. Your editorials on current issues are also frequently marked by a desire to be just, not common to periodicals of your political affiliations.

I consider it nothing less than sacrilege for members of the Republican party of today, with its demonstrated principles (or lack of principles, more properly) to assume to represent the principles of the sainted Lincoln, who, were he with us today, would be as enthusiastic, and as active a worker for Socialism as is Eugene V. Debs, of whose oratorical prowess the Associated Press is so significantly silent, while we are daily regaled with the doings and every movement of the Roosevelt family. We hoped when he left the White House to have a rest from that; but the man's monumental egotism, coupled with the fact of his being the mouthpiece of plutocratic capitalism, have made such rest apparently out of the question. His speeches and writings with Taft's, are an insult to the American intelligence. Do they think the American people obtain their knowledge only through those channels, that they can foist their untruths and malicious misrepresentations regarding the tenets and advocates of socialism, unquestioned and accepted by such gullibles as law and gospel?

"Blind leaders of the blind," and both shall fall into the ditch." There are now many avenues through which truth is pouring into the minds of the people, and which capitalization is no more able to control or suppress than were the tyrants of old to suppress the Bible. Verily, "the truth will make us free." All denunciations such as Roosevelt put into his Outlook, greatly augment the Socialistic movement in that it sets intelligent men and women to study the subject for themselves, thus proving its absolute falsity.

The press of today is teeming with "investigation" of crime in high places, which serve as eye-openers to the people, if they serve no other purpose. Crimes which have been fostered by the two old parties, and, the Republican party having been so long in power, is largely responsible for their inception and growth; crimes against the people which smell to high heaven. Then the hypocritical cant—which would have the people believe for their furtherance—that that exalted party would effect their deliverance from such debaucheries, if political power be still intrusted to their hands—"it is to laugh!" We are a long suffering people and are suffering justly for permitting such things to come to pass through out indifference and inefficiency as citizens. But, "all the people cannot be fooled all of the time." We are awaking to our own shortcomings in these respects, as well as to the crime in high places, and when our intelligence is once fully aroused from its lethargy, presto, change. The capitalistic system of action will be as quickly or more effectually put out of business than was done by the workers in New Zealand. When that day comes—as come it will—humanity will just begin to be glorified.

One of the specially pernicious misrepresentations much indulged in by Roosevelt and Taft is the "doing away with private property," as a Socialistic tenet. Capitalism is doing that, as it is doing most effectually, numbers of other things held up to the people as bugaboos of Socialism, such as "destroying the home," etc., all of which are creations of a disordered brain, in such connection. Private property would be assured, as it can not be now; through accumulations through inheritance, except in case of things desirable to retain because of some sacred sentiment attached, would not be; nor would it be desirable, as ample provision would be assumed for all members of the co-operative commonwealth through opportunity to render such service as should receive the full product of their labor, in fields most congenial, where special talents were manifest. Only public utilities will be owned in common with the natural resources by all the people, with an equable distribution, which will enable each person to have a home in which he and she can develop and find themselves human beings—God's children—not labor-machines or lost, apparently, entities, who, homeless, are corralled when seeking a place to sleep, a temporary refuge, and placed, as criminals, on the rock pile. Oh, the pitiful lack of Christian civilization in the system which empowers the few to gather everything, even coining the life blood of their fellows, for private gain in profit. Human rights are constantly subordinated to property rights. Man, to whom the earth and all things pertaining thereto, was given, is, by divine decree, coming into his own, and the command, "prepare ye the way, make his path straight," is given each of us for the dawning of the new day. ELLA LA D. KEETON.

Colorado Springs, June 13, 1910.

VETO IT, MR. PRESIDENT.

From the New York Mail.

President Taft need not wait for the problematic election of a Democratic Congress to put in use the veto possibilities of the pen just presented to him. Let him begin on the river and harbor bill, which has passed both houses, is now in conference, and is sure to be repassed with most of its original sins upon its head.

It takes some courage to veto a bill which proposes to distribute $52,000,000 of federal money in 467 separate items to an equal number of hungry constituencies—districts and townships. But a beginning must be made somewhere and sometime. This bill is the place to begin, for it is the worst bill passed since 1902; it incorporates a number of projects rejected by other congresses because they lacked merit, and it overrides, as no recent bill has dared to do, the advice of army engineers.

Mr. Taft is the man appointed by fate to swing the ax. He has shown his courage already by his recommendations in the face of a powerful vested interest that second-class mail matter should pay proper tolls to the government. He has shown a zeal for economy, as no President has in a generation, by cutting department estimates to the bone.

The hour has struck for him to make a burnt sacrifice on the altar of the good, but usually neglected cause of economy. Here is where he may most properly answer the implied criticism of Senator Aldrich that if the government were run as a private business would be run, $300,000,000 could be saved a year, and that $100,000,000 could be saved merely by reorganizing the various executive departments. Let Mr. Taft take the senator at his word, and go him one better, by saving $52,000,000 with one stroke of his pen; the veto, among other good things, would cold-shoulder an indefensible project in Senator Aldrich's own bailiwick the Great Salt Pond project.

THE NINE KINGS

Nine monarchs followed in the gloom when Edward journeyed to the tomb; nine monarchs walked, as in a dream—enough to make a baseball team—and cast upon King Edward's bier the futile tribute of a tear. And at his task the sexton sings (the man who digs the graves for kings): "Nine monarchs, in their brave array, are bending over Edward's clay; and does the silent sovereign care, or does he know that they are there? And can the tears of monarchs nine make those dim eyes of Edward's shine? And if they give their nine commands, can they bring life to those cold hands? Can all their armies and their ships bring laughter to those dead white lips? Can their nine crowns and sceptres nine, bring to the dead the life divine? Nine paupers at a pauper's grave, who claw their rags and weep and rave, can do as much to help the dead, as those nine kings at Edward's bed."

The Daily Chit-Chat

If you do not like the way the business interests you are serving are conducted, go to your employer and tell him so, but do not tell your fellow employes.

Criticising their employer and the way he runs the business is one of the mistakes that it seems to me a majority of young business men and women make.

Why don't you be of the minority and avoid it? It isn't safe. Walls have ears and tattlers are rampant everywhere.

It isn't loyal. You surely owe your superior freedom from behind-the-back criticism just as much as you owe him more than eye-service obedience.

And lastly, it isn't kind. If you really believe he is making a mistake in any way, you ought to tell him so to his face. If he is any kind of a man he will be glad to listen, and either prove to you that you are wrong, or think it over and see if he isn't wrong.

Don't criticise your employer behind his back any more than you would strike him from behind.

"I don't think I can be wrong about that not being in Thackery's works," said my companion, "because I've read every word he ever wrote. And I mean that literarily, too. You see I got a notion once that I'd like to read some author right straight through, and I hit upon Thackery."

With a shock of sudden doubt I began questioning myself if I could say that of any author. And I could only find one—Shakespeare. A little of many, much of some, almost all of a few authors, but all of only one.

Such was my reckoning. How stands it with you?

Of course it wouldn't be worth while to read many men's works through. It's better to cull the best from a larger number. But don't you think it would be a rather interesting sensation to be able to say of one or two authors: "I have read every word of theirs that ever was published?"

If you do, why don't you try to attain to that distinction this summer?

* * * * *

I had occasion to call at a home the other day where a sweet old lady lay dead.

Instead of crepe on the door there was a little cluster of daybreak pinks and ferns.

Within, not a shade was drawn. Nor was there any of that dreadful pall-like hush one usually feels in the house of death. I could hear the children playing upstairs quite as usual.

And yet I do not believe a grandmother and mother was ever more loved than this little old lady who had died.

"You see I am trying to keep everything about the home much as usual," said the mother, when I spoke of the death. "I will not let myself cry when the children can see me. I will not have the shades drawn, nor have crepe on the door, nor let that dreadful hush be cast on my home. I do not want my children to think of their grandmother's death as anything terrible.

"She lived a sweet life and she died a sweet and peaceful death. I have told them all that grandmother has gone to sleep, and that she looks so happy and peaceful because she was always so good that she has sweet things to think about.

"I have told them to go and play and not feel unhappy because I am sure grandmother is happy.

"My recollections of deaths that occurred in my family when I was a child are of the most horrible, hysterical, awesome times, and I don't want my children to have the same feelings."

What do you think of it?

Was the old-fashioned way best, or this woman's?

Of course you know what I think.

LIFE LINES

A BIT OF PHILOSOPHY IN EPIGRAM

—Basileus.

Working well gives leisure to the worker; the doing much makes it possible to do more—and better too.

Know thyself! Let ill fortune be your teacher; he comes to give you lessons daily; your own virtue lies in learning.

Promises plenty; make doing doubtful; performance is seldom announced by any advance agents.

Poverty is satisfied with its porridge, luxury loves leisure and avarice is after all.

Truth mistreated makes error grow; the lie is sure to go where truth has not a show.

Friends forgive the failings of one another; the faults of an enemy thus forgiven makes harmony out of discord.

Tattling tears to tatters many a friendship; rumor and scandal "kill time" by trying to murder character.

Acknowledge the good turn, be it great or small and the largeness of your mind is not less than his who gave.

Speech is a kind of cloth woven from your inward thought; spoken words become the world's while thought it yours; think twice before you speak of your fellowman.

Vice leads to the wilderness of woe; the designated life most generally ends in dire death.

Gratitude is the ripened fruit of a good heart; Thankfulness be a blessed tune to sing.

ANCIENT FARMS TO BE RECLAIMED

BIG DAM TO STORE WATER FOR THIRSTY LAND.

Valley of the Nile Will Be Reproduced in Desert Surrounding City of El Paso.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

Governmental sanction has just been given for the construction of a huge dam, which will be the main structure of an irrigation system which will give water to many thousand acres of land in New Mexico, Texas and the Republic of Mexico, all in the vicinity of El Paso, Tex. The construction of this great dam at Elephant Butte will be the chief work of the Rio Grande project which will, when completed, restore 180,000 acres of desert to a fertility to be equaled only in the Valley of the Nile.

A thousand years ago, or 4,000 years ago, before the dawn of history and before the American engineer and his concrete dam construction had been dreamed of, this part of the valley of the Rio Grande was a huge, fertile field. It supported a population of thrifty and industrious people, possessed of a high degree of engineering and constructive skill. Modern man does not know even the name of this race of people. He does not know what was the color of their skin, what gods they worshiped, what history they enacted. He does not know if these people flourished before or after the mighty builders of Egypt. He knows only that these people, in the morning of the career of the human race, were versed in the science of irrigation, for their sole remaining monument is the system of cut stone waterways which were used to bring the water from storage reservoirs to the thirsty land.

Some of these ancient prehistoric canals were cleaned out and repaired by the Indians somewhere about the time Columbus sailed into the west. Spanish explorers, soldiers and priests, found this valley inhabited by sedentary tribes, engaged in agriculture by irrigation, 100 years before John Smith came to Jamestown. The construction of an irrigation plant in this valley has the sanction of the most ancient and honorable precedent and usage possible to be found in the western world.

Irrigation Treaty.

The land which will be reclaimed under this irrigation project lies partly in the territory of New Mexico, partly in the state of Texas, and partly in the Republic of Mexico. On this account, the project is peculiarly complicated by reason of the diverse interests of the federal American government, the Texan state government and the Mexican government. Mexico is the guardian and protector of the interests of its people who dwell in the Rio Grande valley just across the line from Texas. These people and their ancestors, for centuries upon centuries, had been using the water of the Rio Grande to irrigate their lands. Enterprising Americans, settling in New Mexico, above the line, in many private irrigation projects, diverted the water of the river before it reached the point where it becomes an international stream. The result of this was that the land owned by the Mexicans no longer could get any water and was turned back to the desert.

On this account the Republic of Mexico instituted claims against the United States for damages aggregating about $30,000,000. These claims were pending for many years. Three years ago a treaty was entered into between the United States and Mexico, under the terms of which the United States agreed to construct a great irrigation plant and to give without charge, water to the 25,000 acres of Mexican land which had been ruined by the diversion of the waters of the Rio Grande. The total cost of the Rio Grande irrigation project will be $9,000,000, of which $1,000,000 is appropriated directly out of the United States treasury. This sum goes to pay for that proportion of the project which is devoted to the uses of Mexico. According to the treaty, Mexico withdraws all of its $30,000,000 claims in consideration of the construction of the new irrigation plant. The other $8,000,000 will be paid back to the government by the persons who buy the land, as is the case in all other projects under the reclamation service.

Differences Adjusted.

There was still another complication. The state of Texas formerly was the Republic of Texas and was annexed to the United States by a treaty which established certain peculiar relations. The federal government never has owned any public land in Texas, and, therefore, Texas was not included in the provisions of the general reclamation act. A special law was passed by Congress to permit the people of Texas to share the benefits of the reclamation act for the purposes of this project. The project was planned several years ago, but on account of the international and interstate complications, preliminary progress necessarily was slow. Now, all of the diverse interests have been adjusted, the project has been given the official sanction of the department of the interior, and the actual work will be begun immediately.

Of the 155,000 acres of the irrigable land to be reached by the water of this project, 110,000 acres lies in New Mexico, and 45,000 acres in Texas. Perhaps 20,000 acres of this land now is under irrigation of a sort. This land will reimburse the government for the $8,000,000 expended in the project. By the terms of the reclamation act, no person may have water for more than 160 acres. He must pay to the government, in ten annual installments, his proportionate share of the expense of building the irrigation plant. Most of the lands now are in private holdings, but water will not be furnished to one person for more than a single farm unit of 160 acres. Persons holding larger tracts of land will be forced to sell. This will mean, of course, a great increase in population in the territory.

El Paso Center of Project.

The city of El Paso is the commercial capital of the Rio Grande project. El Paso is the metropolis of an immense region extending 1,500 miles from San Antonio to Los Angeles, east and west, and 2,000 miles from Denver to the heart of Mexico, north and south. It is a region wonderfully rich in minerals, blessed by a most salubrious climate, and needing only the development of tributary agricultural lands to make it one of the most populous, prosperous and important commercial centers of the great southwest.

The value of the irrigable lands which will be benefited by this project will be, according to conservative estimates, not less than $15,000,000. This will be security to the government for its advance of $8,000,000 and will be repaid in ten years after the water is turned on, the government making a net investment only of the interest on its money. This financial operation is carried on under the terms of the reclamation act of 1902. That act provided that all money derived from the sale of public lands in fourteen western states should be set aside and appropriated for the reclamation of arid lands by irrigation. The lands thus reclaimed when not already privately owned, are subject to homestead entry, and there is absolutely no charge for the land itself; but the settler must pay to the United States, in not more than ten annual installments, without interest, his proportion, according to the number of acres he owns, of the amount expended by the government in reclaiming the land. The money paid back to the government is continued as part of the reclamation funds, and is used to further new irrigation projects and to maintain and repair the old ones.

Second Nile Valley.

The Rio Grande project will provide splendid opportunities for agricultural development. The irrigable lands will lie on either side of the Rio Grande valley for about a hundred miles north of El Paso and for many miles to the south of the Texas city. Only the life-giving water, now to be provided, is required to convert this territory into a second Nile valley. Indeed, it is asserted by the scientists who have examined the soil of this valley that the land is richer than the soil of the Egyptian valley.

Here in the valley of the Rio Grande the second decade of the twentieth century will find the wealth which the Spanish argonauts sought and failed to find four centuries earlier. This is the oldest part of the United States under the dominion of white men. Marco de Niza invaded this territory in 1539. The next year Francisco Vasques Coronado came here and made this valley the base of operations for explorations of what is now Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado. Spanish colonists learned to make use of the crude but extensive irrigation plans constructed by the aborigines centuries before, and what is now New Mexico was the most highly civilized part of North America. The three centuries since the settlement of North America by English-speaking people have wrought many changes, but now New Mexico and the valley of the Rio Grande are about to come again into their own.

EXPECT LARGE CROWD AT BASE BALL GAME

City Hall and Court House Teams Are Working for Charity Event.

"Have your quarter ready, and go to Washburn field Saturday afternoon, when two baseball teams, one from the city hall, the other from the county court house, cross bats for sweet charity's sake."

The foregoing slogan is rather long, but it explains the whole thing, and that is the reason members of the two teams, and all their friends, are telling it to everyone they meet. As a consequence they expect to have a record-breaking attendance at the game, and incidentally they expect to put up a class of ball that will surprise some folk, who expect to see a bunch of amateurs. All the proceeds of the game will go to the new Bethel hospital.

There may be one or two "dubs" on the teams, but most of the employes in the offices, both at the court house and the city hall, are college graduates, and again, most of them have played ball while there, (to hear them tell it) so, allowing even the customary margin for such boasts, the game should really be interesting. It is known positively that at least five of the men on the court house team know a bat when they see it and would not mistake a catcher's mask for a dog muzzle, while the same holds good of the bunch from the city's executive building.

A keen rivalry exists between the two teams, and members of each are out practicing every day. Until the return of Deputy Sheriff Compton, who is out chasing prisoners instead of balls, it is impossible to announce the exact lineup of the two teams. Compton, for all his length, is said to be a wonder when it comes to copping out all kinds of throws, and it is probable that he will don the glove, the mask and the chest protector, and hold down the space behind homeplate for the court house team. It is also rumored that County Commissioner Madden will leave off inspecting roads long enough to tag at first base any of the city hal team who happens to be lucky enough to hit the ball.

City Health Officer Gillett as catcher, and "Jap" Austin of the city engineer's office as pitcher, will probably form the star battery for the city ballers.

JACK CUTS OUT THE CARS

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 13.—Jack Johnson will forego his automobile for the balance of the training season. Tomorrow both of his racing cars are to go into the paint shop to be touched up, and they will not be ready for use before the first of July. (This was in response to a request from Rickard that the heavyweight champion [illegible] [illegible] to drop the only pastime that he thoroughly enjoys. Rickard has as a reward for this promise, agreed to allow Johnson the use of his machine whenever it is desired, but it is a part of the pact that the black man is not to touch the wheel.

"Look here," said Rickard, on the occasion of his last trip to the Seal Rock house, 'you've just got to stop driving your automobile around so much. There are too many chances that you would hurt yourself. You might do it cranking up the machine or in driving the car. We can't afford to take any of these chances."

Johnson admitted that he saw the force of the argument, but he pleaded that he had no other source of amusement and that he was not a careless driver.

"I don't care how good a driver you are," retorted Rickard;" there are always chances that something will happen, and I want you to promise me there will be no more of it."

"All right," replied Jack, "I will run the cars into the paint shop and they will not be out until after the fight"

Rickard heaved a sigh of relief.

"That's a load off my mind," he declared to some of his close friends. "I certainly was worried about Johnson and his automobile because he likes to speed too much."

Johnson took almost a complete rest today. He was on the road in the morning for a short time, but long before the noon hour had his machine out and unlimbered for action.

"I'm off for San Jose," he announced to the gaping crowd as he entered his machine. Sig Hart accompanied him, and the return was not made until late in the evening.

Tex Rickard, accompanied by Sam Berger, arrived this evening from Ben Lomond. It is understood Berger has come here in order to hold a conference over the sale of the moving pictures.

HAMILTON TRIUMPHS

twice compelled to substitute propellers, he kept going, and tonight his resolution brought its own reward.

The weather was ideal for a flight. The dawn broke transparent and pearly gray with just enough moisture in the air to give the propeller a good thrust. As Hamilton wheeled his aeroplane from its tent on Governors Island a special train chartered by the New York Times and the Philadelphia Public Ledger, and carrying his mother, his wife, his chief mechanic, Albert C. Doty, and Mrs. Doty stood on a siding of the Pennsylvania railroad in Jersey City waiting for the word.

Hamilton attempted to rise and after a brief run over the sands of Governors Island had abruptly halted, much to the mystification of his gallery. The sands were soft from the rains and the biplane, running on narrow tires, sank deep. In sinking, one of the wheels kicked up the end of a hidden stick which came into violent contact with the propeller. A long splinter, four inches wide, was torn out of one of the blades and the aviator had to shut off his engine. Then followed necessary delay while the propeller used by Curtiss in his flight from Albany to New York was fitted. Fortunately the Curtiss machine was still on the island.

Followed by Train.

At 7:35 Hamilton was off again, this time without mishap. One minute and a half later word of his start had flashed over the telephone wires to the Pennsylvania terminal in Jersey City and the special train was after him. At Rahway, 19.4 miles out by rail, the engineer glimpsed something like a huge dragon-fly far ahead of him and far above him, faint in the skies. He put on more speed and the sense of pursuit seemed to communicate itself to Hamilton's wife and to his mother, Mrs. N. Beaudette. Mrs. Hamilton was peering out of the window, her hair fluttering in the wind.

What little wind was stirring seemed southeasterly. Hamilton said afterward that the wind was of little hindrance but of no aid to him. He was moving with admirable steadiness at an average of slightly less than 50 miles an hour. There was no question of a race with the train. Whenever the engineer wished he easily drew ahead, but the instant he slackened speed the aeroplane was over his head again.

Cross a City.

The first point of critical interest was New Brunswick where there was the Raritan river to cross, roofs, factory chimneys, all of a city to cross, with the possibility of instant death to the aviator who might make an unexpected descent.

Hamilton rose a little but held his unslackened pace straight across the heart of the town. In passing through the city the engineer had slowed down a little and the aeroplane began to gain. Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Beaudette ran to the forward coach for a better view. An ambitious photographer climbed on the tender. Mrs. Hamilton scrambled after him. Not to be outdone Mrs. Beaudette joined her. When the train ran ahead of him and slowed down to let him catch up, the incessant musketry fire of his motor could be heard faintly. It seemed a little irregular, but nobody guessed the truth until Hamilton told it to his mechanic. When he was 1,500 feet above the waters of the Kill von Kull, so high that he could not see the Jersey shores, through the fog, one of his eight cylinders went back on him, and never picked up again for his whole journey.

Mounts Higher.

Nearing Trenton, Hamilton began to mount higher and higher. Here was the worst spot of his journey; here was the wide Delaware river to cross with steep banks at either side, here was a broad city with no path distinguishing it but the railway tracks, and here was the possible danger of those erratic air currents that often are near a river. Moreover the tracks were depressed in a deep cut and spanned by frequent bridges.

Hamilton planned to go up 2,000 feet in crossing Trenton. In fact, he rose only to some 500.

"When I began to climb" he said later, "I found the wind blowing head on, and blowing much harder, too. Throughout my trip, it was the same way. That is why I flew at a nearly uniform level of 250 feet."

Circles Aviation Field.

At Philadelphia, Hamilton left the train to go to the aviation field. Instead of alighting, he circled the field four times slowly, to give the people a full chance to see him and then settled with a dive that made the crowd catch its breath.

Men, women and children rushed for him as soon as he settled and it took all the big squad of mounted police to protect him and his machine.

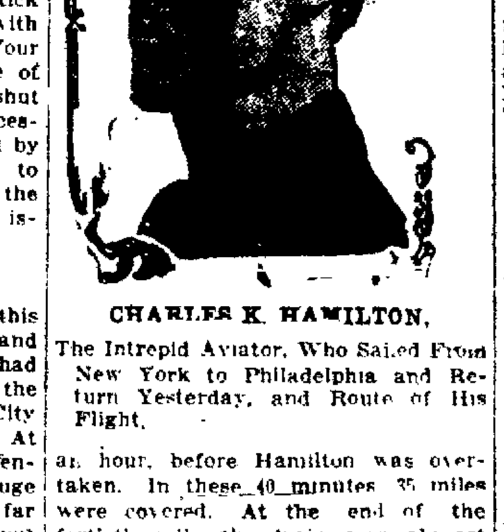

Hamilton stepped to earth boyish and diffident. Mayor Reyburn and Governor Stuart were there to exchange messages for those carried by Hamilton from Governor Hughes and Mayor Gaynor.

After luncheon, Hamilton was back to the fields and off again before the special train could be disentangled from the yard where it was sidetracked. It looked like rain and Hamilton wished to take no chances. But in his hurry he overlooked a precaution that later caused him an unwilling descent. He forgot to clean his spark plugs.

There was no sign of anything wrong, however, as he soared straight into the distance, and in five minutes he had vanished in the haze.

Runs Away From Train.

The special train was 10 minutes late in getting away. Then followed the most exciting incident of the day, at least for spectators. For 40 minutes the special tore after the aeroplane at a speed sometimes touching 75 miles an hour, before Hamilton was overtaken. In these 40 minutes 35 miles were covered. At the end of the fortieth mile the train was abreast of him, two miles to the east of Princeton Junction. In the first hour he covered 52 1 miles. It was noticeable, however, when his exhaust became audible, that his engine was missing again.

CHARLES K. HAMILTON.

The Intrepid Aviator, Who Sailed From New York to Philadelphia and Return Yesterday, and Route of His Flight.

Leaving South Amboy, he headed east for Staten Island, crossed the Kill Von Kull, whirled over the island, and a quarter of an hour after he had started was in sight of his landing place. To the little knot of faithful, who had awaited him on Governors Island, he came into sight at 6:35. He landed thoroughly tired out, grimy, but smiling and cool.

To his friends, who gathered about him, he explained his misadventure at South Amboy. When the engine failed, the aeroplane was badly mired in landing, but Hamilton called for volunteers, who carried the machine on their shoulders, through slime waist deep, to a stretch of level roadway, where he could make a good get away. With clean spark plugs and a new propeller he had no further trouble.

BROOKINS ESTABLISHES RECORD FOR ALTITUDE

INDIANAPOLIS, June 13. Soaring to a height of 4,384½ feet, Walter Brookins, in a Wright biplane, today broke the world's aeroplane record for altitude in the closing event in the National Aviation meet at the Indianapolis speedway.

None of the other entrants was prepared to take his machine out of the aerodome, with the exception of G. L. Bumbaugh of this city, and his biplane was wrecked before he had well started. Bumbaugh lost control of his forward steering planes and the machine fell to the ground from a height of 10 feet and was smashed with the aviator under it. The wreckage took fire and Bumbaugh might have been burned to death had not mechanics run to his assistance. He was slightly cut and bruised.

Brookins' high flight, in which he took the record from Louis Paulhan, who, at Los Angeles, rose to 4,165 feet, was a sensational speed triumph. According to the register of the instruments, Brookins was 1900 feet in the air at the end of seven minutes. He had risen to this point in a wide circle. The whirr of the propeller was then lost to the spectators and the aeroplane was but a cross floating in the sky.

Continuing his circles Brookins rose steadily at a speed estimated at 60 miles an hour. Thirty minutes after he had started he reached his highest altitude and began the descent, maneuvering at lower and lower levels until at a height of [illegible]00 feet he shut off his motor and glided easily to the ground alongside the starting rail.

The aviation meet will continue throughout the week with trials again tomorrow in high and speed contests.

DENVER ATHLETICS SATURDAY

The Denver Athletic club baseball team, which has made a splendid record by cleaning up a large share of the best teams in the state in its early season games, has been secured to meet the Zoos in the games Saturday and Sunday, and when these two get together there should be some smoke rising toward the clouds from the park. [illegible] Denver Athletic club showed its strength by taking two games from Colorado College, the first one on the local grounds and the second one in Denver, and many of the best teams of northern Colorado have been forced to take second money before this bunch of sluggers.

In addition to this eye-opener, the management of the local team has dated up a bunch of teams for games which will insure some of the prettiest contests possible to be arranged in the state this year. The Hofbraus, recognized by many as the fastest team in the west, is scheduled to appear June 25 and 26. This crowd beat the Zoos once this year, and yesterday took a double-header from Fort Collins. With the Denver Athletic club to start things, and the Hofbraus as follower, and many other good ones to come, the Zoos will be against a class of teams which will mean real baseball and no mistake.

BALLINGER CONDEMNED OUT OF HIS OWN MOUTH

So Declares Attorney Brandeis in Brief Filed With Congressional Investigating Committee

WASHINGTON, June 13—The briefs in the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation were today filed with the congressional committee with the consent of the principals. The prosecution is declared baseless, cruel and a conspiracy by John J. Vertrees, Secretary Ballinger's counsel. Louis D. Brandeis, for Louis R. Glavis, demands that the interior department be put under other management than that of Ballinger.

Brandeis, praising Glavis for "intervening to save the Alaska coal lands" and demanding the removal of Secretary Ballinger, declares the defense to have been principally "explaining away the natural meaning of documents, pleas of ignorance and the placing of responsibility on subordinates."

"The best defense Mr. Ballinger has offered," says the prosecution's brief, "is that he was in ignorance of the situation in Alaska and that all the acts for which he was criticised were performed by subordinates for whom he is not responsible. Such a defense is enough to condemn him."

George W. Pepper also filed his brief for Gifford Pinchot, in which the committee is asked to declare that "the imminent care of the public domain is now in unsafe hands."

While denying the charges of conspiracy, this brief says that the real issue of the fight is a clash between the policies of conservation and distribution

Asserting that to believe Ballinger unfit for office is not unlawful, the brief says that Pinchot has long held this opinion

"Mr Ballinger," it reads "apparently had no objection to warfare as long as he was the assailant"

After saying that the evidence which he reviews clears his client and all others now in the interior department Mr Vertrees continues attacking the prosecution's witnesses

"The only persons who can be criticised are those who have been discharged and have arrayed themselves against the secretary and the department of the interior

"This inquiry involved the good name of a gentleman and the reputation of a member of the cabinet. It is no idle thing to assail the character of a member of the cabinet. He is one of the advisers of the president and dishonorable conduct on his part not only brings disgrace to him as an individual but reproach upon the government itself. Consequently such action ought not to be lightly brought

"There ought surely to be substantial grounds. Here it may be assured there are absolutely none."

He quotes testimony in support of his allegation that the prosecution is the result of a conspiracy between Pinchot and ex-Secretary of the Interior Garfield as well as others.

S.S.S. UNEQUALED FOR BAD BLOOD

Normal, healthy blood contains millions of tiny red corpuscles, which are the vitalizing and nourishing element of the circulation. These corpuscles are constantly forming in healthy systems by the extraction of nutriment from food eaten, and this nourishment is then supplied through the circulation to every portion of the system. Any system which does not receive the proper amount of blood nourishment is not prepared to withstand the countless disorders that assail it. Bad blood cannot nourish the body, the circulation must be pure, rich and strong if we would enjoy good health. Bad blood manifests itself in various ways. With some it takes the form of skin diseases and eruptions, others become bilious and malarious, with sallow complexions, torpid liver, etc. If the germs and impurities in the blood are of a more virulent nature then bad blood becomes more serious and produces Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, and like troubles. Nothing equals S. S. S. for bad blood. It is Nature's own blood purifier, made from roots, herbs and barks. It goes into the circulation and removes every impurity or poison, strengthens and enriches the blood, and in this way supplies the body with the proper amount of nourishment to maintain good health. S. S. S. is likewise the finest of all tonics and while purifying the blood builds up every portion of the system. S. S. S. cures every ailment coming from bad blood, and it does so simply because it purifies the circulation. Book on the blood and free to all who write. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE ADVOCATED AS AID TO MOTHERS IN TRAINING CHILDREN

DENVER, June 13.—A brilliant advocacy of woman suffrage, not so much that women may exercise the right of ballot, but that they may thus get the knowledge to enable them to bring up their children to become political forces for the common good, was the feature of an address before the National Mothers congress tonight by Miss Mary Stewart, dean of Women at the University of Montana.

Miss Stewart, who spoke on the general subject of "training in college for citizenship," received an ovation from the delegates at the end of her address, being compelled to return to the platform to bow her acknowledgements.

Her address was one of four delivered by college women before the congress tonight, all of which dealt with the effect of the educated woman on human development. Others who spoke were Miss Lucile Dora, dean of women at the University of Wyoming; and Miss Luella Clay Carson, president of Mills college at Oakland, Cal.

In the morning, addresses by Judge Ben B. Lindsey and Dr. Charles E. Chadsey occupied the attention of the delegates.

As a result of the movement started by the Colorado delegation, which at the morning sesion pledged $100 toward wiping out the debt of the organization, a handsome sum was raised.

MAN REPORTED DEAD IS FOUND ALIVE BY WIFE

Colorado Springs Woman Reunited to Husband After Eight Years' Separation.

ST. LOUIS, June 13.—A report that he was dead and had been buried in St. Louis led to the reunion of James Keeley of 802 Hickory street and his wife, of Colorado Springs, who had been separated eight years.

Mrs. Keeley had heard nothing from her husband during the time of their separation until a short time ago when a friend wrote her that Keeley was dead. She came east to collect the insurance on his life.

She arrived in St. Louis Saturday morning and asked Policeman Bob Bricks, of the Union Station squad, to take her to an undertaking establishment at 116 St. Ange street, from which, she had been told, her husband had been buried. The undertaker said he had not buried Keeley. The city directory was then consulted and it was found James Keeley was employed at the Rutger street plant of the Laclede Gas Light company.

Mrs. Keeley and the policeman went to the gas plant and Keeley was called in. He was confronted by his wife and was dumb with astonishment. Mrs. Keeley told him she was preparing to leave the city and asked him to accompany her to the union station, which he did. At the station, the wife asked Sergeant Meehan to arrest her husband on a charge of bigamy. Meehan informed her he could not do this until an investigation had been made and Mrs. Keeley departed, aftering declaring she would investigate the matter.

Sunday morning Keeley appeared and informed Sergeant Meehan he had not married a second time, and that he was willing to join his wife if she would forgive him. Mrs. Keeley said her husband left her without a word of explanation and never had let her know of his whereabouts. The report that he was dead led her to believe he had been married again, she said.

Mrs. Keeley is not known in this city, so far as could be learned last night, and her name does not appear in the local directory. The railroad offices have no record of having sold a ticket to a woman of that name.

SHOWS NITROUS ACID IN BLEACHED FLOUR

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—Practical tests for the presence of nitrous acid in bleached and unbleached flour were made in the sight of the jury in the "bleached flour" case here today. A chemical was applied to the two kinds of flour by Prof. George Hulem, a member of the chemistry department at Princeton university. He explained that a pink reaction would be a sign of the presence of the acid. Such a reaction resulted when the chemical was applied to the bleached flour. Unbleached flour did not change its color when the chemical came in contact with it

While the tests were being made, Judge E. L. Scarritt an attorney for the defense, sat at his table and ate a handful of bleached flour.

El PASO COMPANY STARTS NEW SHAFT

Connection to Be Made With Drainage Tunnel and Mine Unwatered as Soon as Possible.

Special to The Gazette

CRIPPLE CREEK, June 13.—Work has been commenced on the No. 2 shaft of the El Paso Consolidated Gold Mining company, planned for the development of the north end of the Beacon hill estate. The site of the new shaft is at a point approximately 2,000 feet north of the No. 1 or main shaft, and will be situated upon block 22, or on the Beacon hill Ajax lode mining claim.

Already an upraise has been carried from the fourth or 200-foot level of the main shaft, about 300 feet, and work will be continuous in both upraise and shaft, until connection is made. The object of rushing this work to completion is that as soon as relief is afforded by the drainage tunnel the shaft may be continued downward, to permit of the development of the known ore bodies exposed at the present existing water level. These ore bodies, opened up on the Beacon hill Ajax and adjacent property, are from 20 to 30 feet wide, and notwithstanding the propositions submitted for lease and royalties running as high as 60 per cent have been offered—the management will decline all lease offers.

Allen L. Burris, president and general manager of the El Paso company, was a visitor to the mine on Saturday and Sunday, and went over the ground with the two churn drill experts, William Angus and James Fatkin of Leadville, who will have charge of the drilling of the hole to connect with the Cripple Creek deep drainage tunnel. C. H. McVey, the Santa Fe Railroad company's well drilling expert, who has been called to California, has strongly recommended the Colorado men, and their drilling machinery is now on the cars en route from Leadville. It is expected that the drilling of the hole from the bottom of the main or No. 1 shaft of the El Paso company will commence next week.

A special session of the directors of the El Paso company was held at Colorado Springs yesterday afternoon, when the plans for the draining of the mine and development of the north end of the estate were indorsed and the action of the general manager was ratified.

Tunnel Records Broken.

Advices from Fort Colins have been received here, giving the footage made by James A. McIlwee, holding the contract for the completion of the Laramie-Poudre tunnel, and his crew of Cripple Creek miners during the month of May.

All previous records for tunnel work in this country were eclipsed. The bore was advanced a total distance in the two headings of 845 feet. The heading from the eastern portal in personal charge of McIlwee was advanced 513 feet in granite and the western heading 332 feet. Twenty-seven holes were required on each round, and a large quantity of 100 per cent dynamite is necessary for the breaking of the holes. The men are all working under the bonus system, receiving extra pay for the footage over and above 250 feet each calendar month, and all employed are necessarily making good.

The tunnel is carried seven feet six inches high, and the compressor in use is operated by electricity.

Blue Flag to Resume.

The mine plant at the Blue Flag mine on Raven hill has been steamed up, and sinking operations will shortly be resumed. The mill will resume the treatment of ore when work is resumed on the ore bodies exposed in the upper workings.

Shipment From W. P. H.

A car of coarse rock of about $25 value and a car of screenings estimated at $70 a ton, were loaded out by team yesterday from the Fogleman and Roach lease on the W. P. H. mine on Ironclad hill. The ore was mined from the flat and vertical veins under development at the 400 foot level. The mine is owned by the United Gold Mines company.

STOCKS ADVANCE WHEN BEARS BEGIN TO BUY

Pressure of Liquidation Stops and Short Interest Fears Market Has Been Oversold.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The state of idleness into which the stock market fell today proved to the advantage of values, the withdrawal of orders being apparently from the selling side of the market. The evidence thus afforded of a subsidence in the pressure of liquidation with which last week closed warned the bears not to press their operations. Accordingly, after a preliminary test under which prices yielded only moderately, they bought to cover short contracts. The reports of the borrowing of large amounts of stocks lent credit to the supposition that the short interest was becoming unwieldy and the market oversold.

London prices for Americans were at advances over Saturday, but the opening market here ignored that at first and London was accredited with little part in the day's strength. Other foreign centers were affected by the poor condition of the American copper trade and depressed copper mining stocks. Amalgamated Copper, however, after a momentary response came into the general upward movement. There was a substantial absorption, at the same time, of United States Steel, in spite of reports that the market for finished steel products was beginning to show signs of the same kind of oversupply that has weighed on the iron market. There had to be faced as well as reports of additional curtailment by cotton mills both in New England and the south.

From railroad traffic officials throughout the country came intimations that some checks had been felt on account of the controversy over rates between the railroads and the government. A call was said to have been made on the underwriters of the $43,000,000 Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe convertible bonds for payment of 25 per cent of their subscriptions, the inference being that stockholders had not availed themselves of their privilege of subscriptions to the bonds.

The money market reflected a lightened demand for stock market purposes. The demand from mercantile sources appears to be sluggish as well.

Other money markets report that land speculation in its objectionable forms has been effectively checked. The return to the comptroller of the currency under the call, which is expected at an early date, is awaited with interest for a comprehensive showing of the loan position. London seems to expect to be called upon for gold to help finance the American crop movement this fall, that being one of the reasons for the extraordinary reserves which have been built up in London.

Bonds were somewhat firmer, but with little change from the dull conditions in that department. Total sales, par value, $1,390,000. U. S. bonds were unchanged on call.

PROSPECT BEARISH IN WHEAT MARKET

Lowest Prices to Date for 1910 Crop Reached While 1911 May Delivery Advances.

CHICAGO, June 13.—Lowest prices to date for the wheat crop of 1910 were made this afternoon. As if to emphasize by contrast the bearish outlook regarding the current year, May delivery for 1911 scored a net advance of ⅛c. Large yields and fine quality of new wheat in Texas were recognized as so certain that Kansas City millers offered flour to the Atlantic seaboard at 75c a barrel below the Minneapolis quotation. The effect of this action was immediate on the wheat market here. At the close, the tone was easy with futures ⅜ to ½ under the final figures of Saturday. Corn finished ⅝ to ⅝@⅞c down and oats ⅞@1c. Provisions were off 10c to 15c.

During the last part of the day there was continuous pressure in the wheat market from influential sources. The July option weakened more relatively than the deferred months. The acreage of Canadian wheat was officially stated to be 1,554,000 more than ever before. The Hungarian crop was authoritatively estimated at 198,352,000, as against 113,352,000 bushels last year.

September fluctuated between 88⅝@⅞ and 89⅞ and closed at 88⅝c.

The range for September corn was from 57½ to 58¼ with the close easy at 57⅝@⅞, a net decline of ⅜c.

Because of selling by farmers and on account of the lack of support the oats market declined. Prices varied between 25¼ and 24 ⅝@⅞c, closing at the first named figure, a loss of ½c.

The western hog run today was away off the total a year ago. Pork closed 12½@15c lower, lard 5c, and ribs 2½ to 5c.

GAINED FORTY POUNDS IN FEW MONTHS' TIME

W. V. Berryhill, a well-known and popular fireman living at 71 Bleachery street, Concord, N. C., has given out an interesting statement concerning his recovery from stomach trouble. He says:

"For several years I was in very poor health as a result of stomach trouble. It was hard to find food that I could digest, as many articles of diet produced a vast amount of misery and discomfort. I was also bothered a great deal with gas on my stomach.

"I consulted doctors and tried numerous remedies, but failed to get even temporary relief. I lost flesh, became greatly weakened and run down, and felt dull and languid nearly all the time.

Having failed to get relief after trying so many different kinds of medicine, I was at a loss what to do next. While reading my daily paper one day I chanced upon a statement from some one whose trouble had been similar to mine, and who claimed to have been restored to health by using Cooper's New Discovery.

"I purchased a bottle of the medicine at once, and by the time I had taken half the contents, experienced wonderful relief. Two more bottles made me well.

"I was soon eating anything and everything I wanted and gained forty pounds in weight within a few months. This was over a year ago and there has been no return of my former trouble."

Cooper's New Discovery, the medicine used by Mr. Berryhill, has earned an enviable reputation throughout the country. We sell it.—The Paris Drug Co., Acacia hotel building.

Fag End Religion

Text. Is. 44-17—"And the residue thereof he maketh a god."

In one of Isaiah's mighty prophecies there is a vivid description of how some men used to make their idols. They took the trees which grew in God's sunshine and were watered by the Lord's rain and without acknowledging their debt to the true God appropriated them to their own use. A man cuts down a tree and of a part he makes a fire to warm himself and bake bread and roast meat. Of a part he makes this, that and the other thing for his own comfort and pleasures. "And the residue thereof he maketh a god."

The Christian Register a Unitarian organ published in Boston, suggests that this is a common method in religious work today and facetiously denominates it "Fag-end Religion." People first give full attention to their secular affairs, their comfort and their pleasures and if anything remains that is perhaps given to God urovided some prophet chances around and by a fearless heralding of the truth renders them sufficiently uneasy in their consciences. "Of the residue they make their god." They may think they are worshiping the true God, but instead they have created a little god in their own thought and satisfy an uneasy conscience and appease a starving soul with the stupefying drug of self-deceit by bowing their knees to the God they have put in the sky.

There is no question but religion is coming to be too much a fag-end affair among us. In the former times, the good old days of our fathers religion was the most important thing of life, the thing that engrossed most the thought and feeling of men. More time was given to religion than to all other things combined. In a measure I agree with the Christian Register that while less time is now given to creed and ceremony religion is going more and more into moral structure. I am not a pessimist. I believe there is a power above that of man which makes for righteousness and that all things will come out right in the end. But I am by no means sure that all things are right now.

I believe it calamitous that today the majority of the people and even the majority of the church members make religious duties a matter not of their first but of their last consideration. I believe it sufficient cause for alarm that so many things of the world and of the flesh are allowed to encroach upon the time and the energy which the church ought to give to the work of His house and the service of our King in Christian work.

Which Is the Joke?

Was the apostle joking or ignorant of God's thought when he gave the commandment to Christians to forsake not the assembling of themselves together? Brethren, in all seriousness and with deepest concern for your souls and your spiritual life I ask you which is the joke—your profession of Christ or your inconsistent substitution of the lodge or the card party or the show, or business engagements, or family delights or other secular affairs and carnal comforts and pleasures substitution of these things for attendance upon the church services or the prayer meeting or for Christian work among your fellowbeings. Certainly you can not be downright serious with God in both—one or the other must be a huge joke in your lives. Which is the joke, your profession or your conduct?

If now you are serious in your profession and will open your ears and your hearts to my pleadings this morning and thank God for sending you the truth.

Momentum in Christianity.

My first plea is for a thorough-going aggressiveness in religion—for momentum in Christianity. The religion of Christ is characteristically a religion of motion. The Lord himself summed it all up in His own last word to His disciples. Go! Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature.

Brother, if your religion is not of the go' kind it is of the wrong kind. As someone has said the Christian is like a man on a wheel, he must either go on or go off. Dead wood drifts, but a living tree must grow. A dead sinner may float on the bosom of the moving sea of Christianity as a church member in good and regular standing but a real Christian neither floats nor drifts nor even sails, he steams. He has momentum in himself.

It is related of the Roman general Marius that one day as he waited in his fortified camp, the leader of the enemy sent him this taunting message: 'If indeed thou art a great general come out and fight with me." To which Martius returned the answer 'If indeed thou art a great general make me come out and fight." The Christian is not the man behind fortifications waiting for the enemy to attack. He is the great general who goes out and compels the enemy to fight or flee. He has the 'go" in him and you can not persuade him to stay. If you do you have deprived him of the very marrow of his Christianity.

Going to Church Not All

I want to say now that the Christian has much going to do besides going to church. He must go into his business as a Christian. It is a sort of infidelity when a Christian divides his life into sacred and secular saying: here I must be religious but there I must conform to the business ideas of the world. There is no duty for the Christian that is not religious duty. There is no daily toil where a Christian may leave out his Lord. He should sell goods for Christ, keep books for Christ, farm for Christ, use saw and hammer for Christ, do everything for and in the name of and for the glory of Christ. 'Whether therefore ye eat or drink or whatever ye do, do all to the glory of God.' Have you that sort of religion? Believe me, all other religion is spurious.

Is There Room?

But, again not only does religion make one loyal to his church and loyal to his Master in his daily life but it makes him aggressive in his efforts to win men and women to Christ. You have not forgotten how our Lord rebuked the giver of a feast at which he was himself an invited guest. When thou makest a dinner or supper call not thy friends nor thy brethren neither thy kinsmen nor thy rich neighbor, lest they also bid thee again and a recompense be made thee, but when thou makest a feast call the poor, the maimed, the lame and the blind and then thou shalt be blessed for they can not recompense thee, for thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the just." You remember how he enforced this teaching by that parable of the great supper where the invited make excuses and the lord sent out his servants to bring in the poor, the maimed, the halt and the blind. Do you recollect that the servant when he had done this declared of his lord, "It is done and yet there is room?"

Brethren, is it true now? Is there yet room? Room in the building—yes, too much room left empty both at the service and the prayer meeting, far more than there would be but for fag-end religion but is there room in your sympathies? Room in your hearts? Room in your desires? Room in your efforts to bring them in? I am sure that before there is any aggressive work on the part of the church this question must be settled, Do we want the people to come? Who is foolish enough to expend much effort to get somebody that he does not want when he has got him? There is room with Christ for the repentant outcast. Is there room with you? There is room for Christ for the drunkard and the debauchee who turns to God. Is there roo mwith you? There is room with Christ for the degraded, ragged, pauper who gives his heart to God. Is there room with you? Room with Christ for the woman who has fallen from virtue and looks to heaven for pardon and grace. Is there room with you? Room with Christ for the rascally boy whose parents have made a failure of the parental relation. He is rough, uncouth, boisterous destructive disagreeable, but there is room with Christ for him. Is there room with you?

Have you room in the church for all the various unfortunate specimens of humanity? If we say yes, then what kind of room? Room in the back seat or room in the center with a cordial greeting? Room where the soul is frozen in the chilling drafts of social distinction or room next to your elbow and next to your heart?

Religion the All-Absorbing Business.

My second plea this morning is that religion be made the absorbing business of your life. Don't make your God for your worship or your church or your service or your benevolence out of the fag-ends that remain after you have taken care of your carnal desires. If I had time I would like to delineate the character of Mr. Fag-end. I would point out how he shirks responsibility, how he considers the preacher his hired man and sticks up his nose when the preacher says something he does not approve, how he deserts his work and goes off to the lake or other pleasure resorts on summer Sundays just when his services are most necessary or would be if he had any heart in them, how he often becomes a religious tramp and runs off for the stimulapt he thinks he can get listening to other preachers in other churches, instead of sticking to his own work in his own church, how he is prone to find fault and criticise instead of helping his pastor to reach the hearts of the congregation for the upbuilding of the kingdom, but I forbear. Only let me remind you again that it is Mr. Fag-end who puts self-interest or self-indulgence ahead of the Lord's work, makes the kingdom of Christ secondary and the kingdom of self primary. Of the residue, he maketh a god.

The Marks of the Lord Jesus.

Brethren, you are marked men and women. Paul said "I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus." So does every true Christian. At Manistee one summer day I watched the great boom of logs as they came down to the sorting place. The sorters were there with their spiked boots and their long pikes, turning this log one way and that another each driven to its owner's boom. How did they know which was which? Every log bore on its body the mark of its owner. Brethren, the sorting time is coming for all the people of this world and you and I will be known by the mark in our bodies. Will it be the mark of the Lord Jesus?

The Conservation of Nature's Resources

Applies as well to our physical state as to material things. C. J. Budlong, Washington, R. I., realized his condition and took warning before it was too late. He says: "I suffered severely from kidney trouble, the disease being hereditary in our family. I have taken four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy, and now consider myself thoroughly cured. This should be a warning to all not to neglect taking Foley's Kidney Remedy until it is too late." For sale by all druggists.

COLORADO PROGRESSIVE

State Is Ordering Only Latest and Best Road and Ditch Building Machinery.

That the people of Colorado are determined to install the best system of roads and ditches throughout the state that can be secured, is evident by the manner in which they have been ordering apparatus made expressly for this purpose, according to T. J. Fair, former street commissioner, at present state representative for J. D. Adams and company, of Indianapolis, Ind., manufacturers of all sorts of mechanical appliances used in this work. If the trade continues to grow, Colorado Springs will be greatly benefited, as that company is planning upon establishing a branch store in this city. Fair has just returned from a trip through northern Colorado and Wyoming, and the results of this journey demand that some action be taken in order that the orders for such goods, which are constantly increasing, be met more quickly.

NO MONEY SHORTAGE, SAY CITY OFFICIALS

That Colorado Springs has enough money in its coffers to pay all wages and expenses, is the information given out at the city hall, following a report which gained circulation that ready cash was short. It is stated that the wages due employes July 10 will be met without trouble, and that while the city treasury is usually at its lowest ebb at this time of the year, there will be no necessity to transfer funds from one department to the other. Thousands of dollars are due the city and will be collected after July 1, from water rentals and city taxes. The story that there would be a shortage of cash was based on the rumor that the appropriations this year had been cut too much.

A regular report shows that the city paid out $59,758.14 during May, leaving a balance on hand of $42,872.45.

BERT DAVIS RESIGNS AS CITY POUND CUSTODIAN

It was learned yesterday that the resignation of Bert Davis as custodian of the city pound was presented to the Council some time ago, and becomes effective today. Davis, it is understood, will take a position at the El Paso club. It will probably be some time before the vacancy is filled, as it is necessary to select a man for the position by civil service examination.

Dunbar Carpenter, president of the civil service commission, is out of the city, and the resignation of C. W. Zeiger as a member of the commission has been accepted, so that there is only one member, E. H. Joslyn, in Colorado Springs at this time. Until the commission is reorganized, no examinations will be held.
